FRENCH TAKE LINE OF TRENCHES; BRITISH ALSO MAKE PROGRESS

London Reports Heavy Fighting in Neighborhood of Somme and Aisne.

FOCH'S MEN ADVANCE EAST OF CURLU AND NEAR CLERY

Germans Recapture Village but Are Driven Out in Counter Attack—Paris Announces Total of Prisoners in French Hands Exceeds 9,000.

PARIS, July 5.—The French have captured a line of German trenches east of Curlu, the war office announced today.

They have also captured Sormont Farm, facing Clery.

An official British statement given out this afternoon in London says:

"Heavy fighting continued throughout the night in the neighborhood of the Aisne and the Somme. We make further progress to certain important points.

The statement says:

"North of the Somme we have resumed our offensive action and occupied last night a line of German trenches east of Curlu.

"South of the Somme our infantry, continuing successes in the direction of the river, took possession of the Sormont Farm on the left bank opposite Clery. All the region to the south lying between this farm and Hill 63 on the road which runs between Flaucourt and Barleux, is in our possession.

"After an intense bombardment, the enemy last night attacked Belloy-en-Santarre and were able to occupy for an instant the eastern part of this village, but a counter attack by our troops brought the entire village back into our possession. The Germans are still in their positions in a part of the village of Estrees, where the fighting has been very spirited. Every counter attack against our positions has been broken by our fire.

"The total number of ablebodied prisoners taken by us up to the present time exceeds 9000. The exact number of cannons captured is not yet known. In this connection it may be said that our army corps operating south of the River Somme estimates its captures at 60 pieces of artillery.

"On the left bank of the Meuse yesterday evening an attack of the enemy upon the redoubt of Avocourt was completely repulsed by the fire of our machine guns.

"Between the region of Avocourt and Hill No. 304 the Germans have delivered a strong attack. In spite of the use in great quantities of flaming liquids by the enemy, this attack resulted in failure and cost our assailants heavy losses.

"On the right bank the bombardment is continuing with great violence in the region of the Thiaumont work and in the Chenois sector."

A British official statement timed at 8 p. m., says:

"Hand-to-hand fighting and bombing continues between the Ancre and the Somme. Five hundred more prisoners have been taken by us since the number last reported."

The official statement issued last night by the French War Office said:

"North of the Somme the day passed quietly in the whole section occupied by the French troops.

"South of the Somme, in spite of bad weather, which interfered with our operations, we extended our positions in the course of the day toward the south and east. We captured woods in the neighborhood of Assevilles and the villages of Barleux and Balloy-en-Santarre, which we hold in entirety. Estrees also has fallen into our hands, with the exception of a small part where the Germans are still resisting. In the region of Estrees alone we took 300 prisoners.

Germans Hold Thiaumont.

"On the right bank of the Meuse the Germans redoubled their efforts in the region of Thiaumont, on which since midday they directed a bombardment of great violence with guns of big caliber. About 2 o'clock, after several assaults had been repulsed, a massed attack was launched on the work and they succeeded in capturing it for the fourth time. Our troops maintain their positions in the immediate neighborhood of the work."

The British official statement issued last night, said:

"On the southern sectors of our front fighting continues throughout the day and at some points we made slight progress. The remainder of a whole German battalion surrendered in the vicinity of Fricourt yesterday.

"At La Boisselle fierce fighting and bombing continued and bombing encounters took place during the past 24 hours. Our troops now are in complete possession of the village.

"The Germans made a strong bombing attack this afternoon on that portion of their original front which now is held by us south of Thiepval and the Ancre, the enemy heavily shelled our newly-won trenches."

"Immediately north of the Ancre there is no change in the situation. There was considerable artillery activity today about Loos and the Hohenzolern redoubt. A German raid last night on our trenches south of Armentieres completely broke down under our rifle and machine gun fire and considerable losses were inflicted on the enemy.

"Our aeroplanes successfully attacked yesterday the important railway centers at Comines, Combles and St. Quentin. Our offensive patrols, working into the enemy's country, encountered hostile aeroplanes in great numbers and much fighting took place. Four German machines were brought down inside of our lines, and at least three others were driven to ground in a damaged condition."

Peronne now is separated from the French advance post at Blaucourt only by a narrow, bare plateau bordering the Somme above Bianche and reaching its highest point 97 meters at the hamlet of La Massonette.

This is a logical move, since as a result of the progress of the past three days the depot at Peronne of the railroad connecting Chaulnes, Roye and Cambrai is now under the fire of French guns, as is the depot at Chaulnes, where the Paris-Cambrai and Tergnier-Amiens railroads cross. Such an offensive will be a serious menace to the Germans and likely to have the additional advantage of relieving pressure upon the British, against whom the Germans continue to direct the bulk of their forces.

FIGHTING IN WEST CONTINUOUS, SAYS BERLIN REPORT

BERLIN, via London, July 5.—Violent fighting between the Germans and entente allies on both sides of the Somme River has been continuous since last night, says the official statement issued today by the Army Headquarters staff. Up to the present time, the statement adds, the allies have nowhere obtained serious advantages.

The statement says:

"The number of unwounded British prisoners taken during the last few days on the right bank of the Ancre totalled 48 officers and 867 men.

"At the front on both sides of the Somme, violent fighting has continued since last night. Up to the present the enemy nowhere have obtained serious advantages.

"On the left bank of the Meuse there were no special incidents. On the right bank the French repeatedly attempted with strong forces, but fruitlessly to advance against our positions northwest of Thiaumont Work."

German Losses in Drive Estimated at 60,000.

PRESS CAMP IN FRANCE, July 5, noon.—The total number of prisoners taken thus far in the Anglo-French offensive probably has reached 15,000. Judging from these figures, the German losses as a whole, it is estimated here, have been at least 60,000.

The British have taken 11 guns. The relatively small number captured is due to the fact that the Germans, in anticipation of the attack withdrew their guns to longer ranges. It is reported by prisoners that the Germans are sending in reserves hastily from many points on the western front.

GARBAGE DRIVERS ABANDON STRIKE, BEGIN CLEAN UP

Pledge of Mayor Kiel to Work for Wage Increase Bill Wins Them Over.

220 MEN ARE INVOLVED

Measure to Be Urged on Aldermen Calls for Wages of $65 a Month.

The five days' strike of the 220 city garbage wagon drivers ended shortly after noon today, when the men, at a meeting held at 2228 Olive street, voted to return to work at once. Their action was brought about by the signed pledge of Mayor Kiel and President Hall of the Board of Aldermen that they would do their utmost to obtain the immediate passage of a bill, now in the Board of Aldermen, which increases the drivers' pay from $50 to $65 a month.

At 1:10 o'clock, less than an hour after the vote was taken, the men were taking out their wagons from the city stables, Forest Park boulevard and Vandeventer avenue. Ninety-six garbage carts and four dead animal wagons were taken out within a short time, and the men declared they would have the city "cleaned up" within two days. The accumulated garbage is estimated at 1500 tons.

Want Bill Passed by Tuesday.

The men said that, if the promised legislation increasing their pay is not enacted by next Tuesday, they would walk out again. The Mayor, who cut short a visit to New York to come home and handle the strike situation, believes the increase will be enacted by that time, and perhaps as early as Saturday evening.

The drivers struck last Friday, the same day that the bill increasing their pay was introduced into the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Hunt. The Aldermen were ready to pass the bill if the Board of Estimate and Apportionment would recommend it, but it was understood that Comptroller Player, whose judgment in most matters carries great weight in the Board of Estimate, was against it.

But the Mayor and the President of the Board fo Aldermen are the two other members of the Board of Estimate, and they can outvote Player. They promised, at a conference with strikers' representatives this morning, that they would do this, and would approve the wage increase bill at once.

The Aldermen can then give the bill a reading Friday, and pass it at a special meeting Saturday, after which the Mayor promises, he will sign it at once. The bill carries an emergency clause, and so will become effective as soon as it is passed and signed.

This program was outlined to the strikers' representatives by the Mayor and Hall, and when the signed promise of the two officials was presented to the strikers, the vote to go back to work was unanimous. Some wished to wait until tomorrow morning, but Thomas Coyne, head of the teamsters' local, urged the men to meet the city half way, and relieve the serious condition that the strike, coming in hot weather, has brought about.

Starkloff Urged Action.

Health Commissioner Starkloff attended the conference in the Mayor's office and was urgent in his insistence that the collection of garbage be resumed. He said reports were reaching his office continually that families were dumping their garbage in vacant lots and alleys, because their garbage receptacles are full. He said 25 dead horses and some 75 dead dogs were lying in the streets. A moment after he had said this, a messenger came from his office to tell him of another dead-horse complaint.

The city garbage at this season is estimated at 300 tons a day, so that the accumulated amount is about 1500 tons. The Mayor cut short a visit to New York, and returned last night, in order to deal with the strike situation. He went to the stables, at Vandeventer avenue and Forest Park boulevard, last night, and talked to some of the strikers.

40 Policemen at Barns.

Forty policemen, who were detailed to protect drivers who might return to work, or men who might be hired in their places, were at the stables for a time this morning. They were sent back to their beats, after Supt. Laxton of the garbage division of the Street Department, reported that he had no men for the police to protect.

TOO WET FOR SOME MILITIAMEN

They Refused to Leave Train at Border, Funston Reports.

NEW YORK, July 5.—A telegram received at Governor's Island yesterday from Major-General Funston reporting that a national guard infantry regiment had refused to leave its train when it reached a town "somewhere on the border" because it was raining heavily.

If the telegram identified the regiment, the officers on Governor's Island wouldn't tell, except that it was from the Department of the East. They did not doubt that means had been found to "persuade the regiment to obey orders, even at the cost of a wetting."

Double Wedding in Camp Clark.

CAMP CLARK, NEVADA, Mo., July 5.—A double wedding was celebrated in Camp Clark at noon today in the Third Regiment of Kansas City. Jack Bley of E Company was married to Miss Margaret Kreng of Kansas City, and Carl J. Spero to Miss Esther Harrison of Nevada.

BABY DYING EVERY HOUR IN NEW YORK FROM PARALYSIS

Record Is 12 Deaths in as Many Hours; Total Now Is 138.

178 NEW CASES FOUND

Parents, Alarmed by Epidemic, Rush to Health Officers for Advice.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The average of one death an hour was maintained today by the infantile paralysis epidemic, 12 children dying of the disease between 10 o'clock last night and 10 o'clock this morning in the five boroughs of New York City.

In 48 hours there were 178 new cases reported, of which 102 occurred in the last 24 hours, in or near the seat of the epidemic in Brooklyn.

In one Brooklyn hospital today there were 225 children victims of the diseases, many of whom, it was said, had only a slight chance of recovery.

Health Commissioner Emerson was in conference with his assistants and a corps of medical experts all morning. It is understood that drastic measures to rid the city of the plague are under consideration.

The officers of the Health Department were besieged today by men, women and children, mostly foreigners, who, terrrified by reports of the spread of the disease, demanded medical advice. It was necessary to summon extra policemen to preserve order and at one time those waiting for an audience with the doctors formed a line which extended for nearly a block.

Since June 26, when the epidemic took hold, 702 cases of infantile paralysis have been reported. Of this number 138 died. Physicians fighting the disease were of the opinion that cooler weather would do more than anything else in routing the plague.

138 Have Died.

At least 10 more children are reported to have died from the disease during the night. Seven of them lived in the section of Brooklyn where the epidemic originated.

Dr. S. R. Blattleis, Brooklyn Health Commissioner, said today that the epidemic showed no signs of abatement.

It was learned this morning that several cases of infantile paralysis had been discovered in Long Island, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, today ordered what is virtually a quarantine of Governor's Island because of the epidemic. By the ocmmander's orders no children are to be permitted to visit the island and the soldiers there will not be permitted to visit their families until further notice.

Expects 1500 Cases.

Commissioner Emerson expects the total number of cases to get above 1500, which is the capacity of the department's contagious disease hospitals and for this class of cases. Under the charter he may make such a demand on any institution in the city, whether public or private.

The spread of the disease in New York and Brooklyn at the present time has alarmed the New York Health Department to such a degree that it is seriously considering means of "quarantining" all children in their living rooms for two weeks. How to accomplish that in the tenement districts without creating a worse condition is the big question not solved. Peremptory orders were given to all moving picture houses to forbid entrance to children. All picnics and summer gatherings for children under the control of the various city bureaus of New York have been abandoned, and the public parks would be closed to children were it not for the ever-present fear of creating a worse situation by crowding in the tenements.

At first it was feared that the disease was being spread through the schools, but in Brooklyn, where the epidemic got its start, nine out of each 10 afflicted have been under school age. There is a large Italian population in this Brooklyn district, and it was suspected that the germ might have been brought from Italy. Immigration from Italy has been slight of late, though, and cable inquiries at Naples and Palermo, from whence come most of the Italian immigrants, did not reveal any unusual health conditions there.

From this little restricted Italian district in South Brooklyn the disease has crept through that city, gone almost the entire length of Manhattan Island (Old New York) and out into the broad, open fields of Long Island. A mystifying feature of the situation is that in 1907 a similar outbreak began in this same Brooklyn district. It is not suggested, however, that the germs have been dormant all this time.

More than 50,000 babies and small children are known to have been taken from New York City within the last few weeks. In consequence, sporadic cases are expected throughout the outlying districts.

Cold to Halt Spread.

Following custom, the epidemic should reach its height in August and gradually die out as cold weather approaches. It is rare in winter. New York's Health Commissioner, Dr. Emerson, accompanied by Dr. Bertha Blatteis, who is in charge of the field force; Dr. Bertram Waters, head of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases, and Dr. Louis C. Ager, one of the department's advisers, made a tour of inspection of the infected districts in South Brooklyn.

A not infrequent condition was to find

Text of Carranza Reply To Recent American Notes

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The text of the Mexican note, as transmitted by Eliseo Arrendondo, the Mexican ambassador designate, to Secretary Lansing, today, follows:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4, 1916.

"Mr. Secretary: I have the honor to transmit in continuation the text of a note I have just received from my Government with instructions to present it to Your Excellency:

"'Mr. Secretary:

"'Referring to the note of June 20 and 25 last, I have the honor to say to Your Excellency, that the immediate release of the Carrizal prisoners was a further proof of the sincerity of the desires of this Government to reach a pacific and satisfactory arrangement of present difficulties. This Government is anxious to solve the present conflict and it would be unjust if its attitude were misinterpreted.

"'It was also the Mexican Government that earnestly suggested a plan for cantonments along the boundary line during the conferences of Ciudad Jaurez and El Paso. This Government is disposed now, as it has always been, to seek an immediate solution of the two points which constitute the true cause of the conflict between the two countries, to wit: the American thinks reasonably that the insecurity of its frontier is a source of difficulty and the Mexican Government on its part believes that the stay of American troops on Mexican territory aside from being a trespass on the sovereignty of Mexico is the cause of the conflicts. Therefore the withdrawal of American troops on one hand and the protection of the frontier, on the other, are the two essential problems, the solution of which must be the directing object of the efforts of both countries.

"'The Mexican Government is willing to consider in a quick and practical way and prompted by a spirit of concord, the remedies which should be applied to the present situation.

"'Several Latin-American countries have offered their friendly mediation to the Mexican Government and the latter has accepted it in principle. Therefore the Mexican Government only awaits information that the Government of the United States would be disposed to accept this mediation for the purpose mentioned above or whether it is still of the belief that the same results may be attained by means of direct negotiations between both Governments.

"'In the meantime this Government proposes to employ all efforts that may be at its disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggravate the situation. At the same time it hopes that the American Government on its part may make use of all efforts to prevent also new acts of its military and civil authorities of the frontier that might cause new complications.

"'I avail myself of this opportunity to reiterate to Your Excellency the assurance of my most distinguished consideration.

C. AGUILAR.'

"Having thus complied with higher instructions of my Government, it offers me pleasure to reiterate to Your Excellency the assurance of my highest consideration.

"E. ARREDONDO."

BLINDED BY AUTO HEADLIGHT, DRIVES OFF BRIDGE; 5 HURT

St. Louis Man's Machine Plunges 10 or 12 Feet Into Creek Near Fenton and Overturns.

Five persons were injured in an automobile which went over a bridge int oa creek near Fenton last night. The owner of the automobile, a man named Stephens, of St. Louis, was blinded by powerful headlights on another machine and drove through the rail of the bridge. The car plunged 10 or 12 feet into the mud and water and overturned.

Mr. and rMs. Andrew Nagel, whose directory address is given as 1469 Blackstone avenue, and Fred J. Michael of 1831 Rauschenbach street were in the car with Stephens and his wife.

All were cut and briused, and Nagel's collar-bone was broken. Dr. M. Dalton of Fenton treated them. Stephens told Dr. Dalton that the driven of the machine which blinded him drove on after the accident.

Many automobile drivers have adopted the practice of turning off brillian headlights when they meet another machine on a country road.

MISSOURI EDISON LAWYERS DEMAND FEE OF $100,000

Fix Their Compensation at $30 a Share for Collecting From the Union Electric.

Today was the date fixed for the 70 minority stockholders of the Missouri Edison Electric Co. to go into court to collect $606,547.80, which they recently won after 13 years of litigation with the Union Electric Light and Power Co. Everything went well with the arrangements and the Union company was all ready to pay over the amount, but there came a sudden hitch. The attorneys made known that they would expect a fee of $100,000 for conducting the litigation.

The attorneys figured that through their prosecution of the suit each of the plaintiffs would receive $101.20 more for each share of Missouri Edison stock he held than if he had accepted the amount offered by the Union Electric. The attorneys figured their fee on the basis of $30 a share.

The lawyers who will participate in the division of the fee are Douglas W. Robert, Elenious Smith, W. B. Thompson and D. T. Bomar of Fort Worth, Tex.

Question of Reasonable Fee.

When the attorneys undertook the litigation there was an understanding that a "reasonable fee" should be charged, and now the question which has arisen is that of what is a "reasonable fee."

The plaintiffs were offered $50 a share for their holdings at the time the North American Co., in forming an electric merger in St. Louis, took over the Missouri Edison company. This they refused. The attorneys figured that if they had taken this and had invested it at 6 per cent they would now have only $89 for each share. They say that through their efforts the holders of the stock will receive $101.20 more than $89, and that as they will get it through their attorneys, the attorneys are entitled to at least $30 a share.

It was stated today by one familiar with all details of the litigation that all of the plaintiffs with the exception of Frank A. Ruf of the Antikamnia Chemical Co., agreed with the attorneys that $100,000 was a reasonable fee. Ruf said he thought $25,000 was a "reasonable fee," but that he would be willing for the attorneys to have $50,000.

The attorneys were not willing to accept this amount, however, and in drawing up the decree which will be presented to Judge Trieber in Federal Court during the afternoon, they included a provision that $100,000 of the total amount which the Union Electric is ready to pay into court shall be held by the Court or by a trustee to be selected by the Judge, until the court can pass upon the question of the proper fee.

Ruf will receive the larger amount. He holds 1100 shares and will receive $209,220. Morgan Jones, who initiated the litigation, held 1000 shares. He will receive $190,200. The remainder is divided in smaller amounts among the other 68 minority stockholders.

CARRANZA'S REPLY TO U. S. DELIVERED; MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION

Officials in Washington Believe That It Has Averted the Danger of War.

SINCERE WISH TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES EXPRESSED

Expected That President Will Meet First Chief More Than Half Way If Trying to Avoid War—American Troops May Leave Mexico Soon.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The crisis between the United States and Mexico virtually came to an end today when a friendly and conciliatory note from the de facto Government was handed to Secretary Lansing and promptly communicated to President Wilson.

Formal statement of the attitude of the Washington Government must await the President's action, but there is no doubt in the minds of officials that the way has been opened for an amicable adjustment of the dispute as to the border situation.

Secretary Lansing himself would make no comment. He gave the impression, however, that Gen. Carranza's suggestion that there is no pending question between the Governments which cannot be readily answered by friendly negotiations, meets with quick sympathy here.

As soon as a translation of the Spanish text of the note could be made it was sent to the White House. Secretary Lansing and President Wilson will confer before any formal comment is made.

Mr. Lansing is known to share President Wilson's desire that hostilities be avoided if there is any possible way to safeguard American border interests without a clash with the Carranza Government. The new Mexican communication so plainly indicates a similar desire that a further interchange of views is expected to begin immediately looking to joint efforts to curb border bandits and other irresponsible agencies that have worked to embroil the two Governments.

Brief, and free from all superfluous language of diplomacy, the communication points to the release of the American troopers captured at Carrizal as proof of the Mexican Government's sincere desire to avoid a conflict; states as the outstanding issue, the reasonable belief of the United States that the insecurity of its frontier is a source of difficulty and, on the other hand, to the belief of the Mexican Government that the presence of American troops in Mexico is a trespass on that country's sovereignty and the immediate cause of trouble.

Willing to Act Promptly.

In offering to consider in a "quick and practical way" the remedy which should be applied, the note gives notice that Mexico has accepted in principle Latin-American offers of mediation and awaits information that the United States is disposed to accept mediation or still is of the belief that the same results may be attained by direct negotiations. Assurances are given that in the meantime the de facto Government will employ every effort to avoid a recurrence of incidents which would complicate and aggravate the situation, and the hope is expressed that the United States will endeavor to have its military and civil authorities do likewise.

High officials were much impressed by the complete change in tone shown in Gen. Carranza's new note. It was described by one as "more than conciliatory." There seemed to be no disposition to doubt that the United States on its own side would arrange for the early withdrawal of the expeditionary force from Mexico.

With more than 150,000 regulars and national guardsmen soon to be available for border patrol work, the necessity for keeping Gen. Pershing's column any great distance beyond the line has lessened, according to many officials.

It was pointed out that it will be impossible for any considerable force of bandits to assemble for an attack across the line such as the raid on Columbus, N. M., if Gen. Carranza carries out the promises made in his note "to employ all efforts" that may be at his disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggravate the situation."

Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican Ambassador-Designate, had this comment to make:

"The note speaks for itself. It is thoroughly explanatory and sets forth exactly the situation with the United States as viewed by the Mexican Government."

Copies of the note were sent by Mr. Arredondo to all embassies and legations in Washington.

The Mexican note does not make the specific explanation of orders given to Gen. Trevino sought by Secretary Lansing's last communication. Gen. Carranza was then informed that the order to attack Gen. Pershing's men if they moved east, south or west in Mexico was described here as an act of deliberate hostility. The declaration that the Carranza Government will seek every means to avoid new incidents to aggravate the situation is regarded as a virtual withdrawal of the order.

Although the note is signed by Gen. Aguilar, Foreign Minister, officials of the Mexican embassy believe it was dictated by Gen. Carranza himself.

What U. S. Demanded.

The demands upon Carranza, contained in Secretary Lansing's note sent a week ago Sunday and presented in the form of a communication from Special Agent Rodgers to the Mexican Foreign Office, were as follows:

"I am instructed therefore by my Government to demand the immediate release of the prisoners taken in the encounter at Carrizal, together with any property of the United States taken with them, and to inform you that the Government of the United States expects an early statement from your Government as to the course of action it wishes the Government of the United States to understand it has determined upon, and that it also expects that this statement be made through the usual diplomatic channels, and not through subordinate military commanders."

It is believed President Wilson will meet Carranza more than half way in trying to avoid hostilities. This conciliatory spirit does not contemplate the removing of Gen. Pershing's column from Mexican soil, however, nor does it imply any action which would remove protection to the American border by American troops.

More Than Verbal Assurance.

Those familiar with President Wilson's views believe that Carranza will be required to do more than give verbal assurances of a desire to prevent a clash with the United States. They believe he will be compelled to make some redress for the discourteous tone of his former communication.

In both of his latest notes Secretary Lansing sharply reprimanded the de facto Government for failure to observe ordinary diplomatic usages. His first note resented charges of bad faith, political intriguing and the like openly stated in the Mexican demand for withdrawal; the second tersely notified the de facto Government that the United States expected to receive diplomatic communications through diplomatic channels, not through subordinate military commanders.

These were the first American communications to the de facto Government in which anything but wholly friendly language was employed.

Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City reported to the State Department today the return by local Mexican authorities at Manzanillo of all of the American owned gold and silver bullion, worth about $200,000, which had been seized. Return of the American property was ordered by the de facto Government following a protest from the State Department.

SLAVS CONTINUE ATTACKS AGAINST GERMAN CENTER

Heavy Fighting Against Prince Leopold's Forces Near Baranovichi Under Way — Attacks Repulsed With Great Losses Says Berlin.

TEUTONS ADVANCE NORTH OF KOLOMEA

Report From Bucharest Says Cossack Patrol Have Crossed From Bukowina Onto the Hungarian Plains. Italians Push on.

BERLIN, via London, July 5.—Russian troops are again attacking the German line from Zirin to the region southeast of Baranovichi in Lithuania, says the official statement given out today. Very stubborn hand to hand fighting is in progress the announcement adds, and the Russians have either been repulsed or driven back from the places where they have broken into the German lines. The heaviest losses, it is added, were suffered by the Russians.

The statement says:

"The operations of the enemy against the front of Field Marshal von Hindenburg were continued, especially on both sides of Smorgon.

"German aeroplane squadrons dropped bombs freely on the railway establishments and troop camps near Minsk.

"Army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: The Russians have recommenced attacking the front from Zirin to a point of southeast of Baranovichi. Hand-to-hand fights in some places were very stubborn. The Russians either were repulsed or driven back from the sections where they had broken into our lines. They suffered the heaviest losses.

"Army group of Gen. von Linsingen—On both sides of Kostinchowka, northwest of Chartorysk and northwest of Kolki, fighting continues. The Russian detachments which penetrated across the River Styr to the west of Kolki were attacked.

"At many points northwest and southwest of Lutsk and in the neighborhood of Whereben, northeast of Berestechk, all attempts made by the enemy with strong forces to wrest from us the advantages which we had obtained failed.

"Apart from heavy and sanguinary losses the Russians lost in prisoners 110 officers and 1139 men.

"The railway establishments and troop camps in Lutsk were attacked by our enemy aviators.

"Army group of Gen. von Bothmer—South of Barysz the enemy temporarily obtained a foothold on a narrow front in our first line. We added to our successes southeast of Tlumach."

Berlin Claims Five-Mile Advance Near Kolomea.

LONDON, July 5.—The latest official statement from Petrograd gives no hint of the operations north of Kolomea, where the Germans yesterday reported a notable victory for the Teutonic forces.

The Berlin statement of yesterday said:

"Army group of Gen. Count von Bothmer: Southeast of Tlumach our troops, in a quick advance, forced back the Russians on a front more than 12 and one-half miles wide and more than five and one-fourth miles deep."

Tlumach is 27 miles north of Kolomea, the railways junction point recently taken by the Russians, and 23 miles southeast of Buczas.

Berlin also reported the capture of 11 officers and 1803 men by the army group of Prince Leopold, against which the Russians admittedly made advances. Petrograd yesterday announced that the Russians broke through two lines of German works south of Tzirine, northeast of Baranovichi, and captured 72 officers, 2700 soldiers and 11 cannon.

Petrograd Statement.

The official statement issued at Petrograd last night said:

"Fighting in the region northwest of Baranovichi continues, the enemy defending himself stubbornly and endeavoring to repulse our offensive. In the village of Ekimovitchi, east of Baranovichi, the railway station changed hands several times, but now is in our possession. In many sectors artillery fire continues with increasing intensity.

"In the course of these engagements the brave Major-General Karpoff and Col. Petrzoff were wounded.

"Northwest of Czartorysk in the region of the village of Galouziskai we took by storm a strongly fortified element of the enemy's position. West of Kolki our troops captured first-line trenches in the region of the village of Toumane. South of the Stokhod River there have been actions of artillery and infantry on the whole front as far as the region of the River Lipa.

"Galicia front—Artillery has been in action in many places and on our extreme left wing there was fighting against strong rear guards of the enemy in the spurs of the Carpathians."

Hungary Reported Entered.

Bucharest reports a significant movement of Russian patrols, who are said to have advanced from Kimpolung in Bukowina, and entered Hungarian territory.

Though the official communications with respect to the battles along the Austro-Italian front give only a meager idea of the situation as a whole, that issued by the Italian War Office indicates that the artillery and infantry fighting is of a continuous and desperate nature.

"The Russians have revived methods of warfare of remote ages by unexpectedly introducing cavalry and sending them against enemy trenches with satisfactory results," says the London Post's Petrograd correspondent.

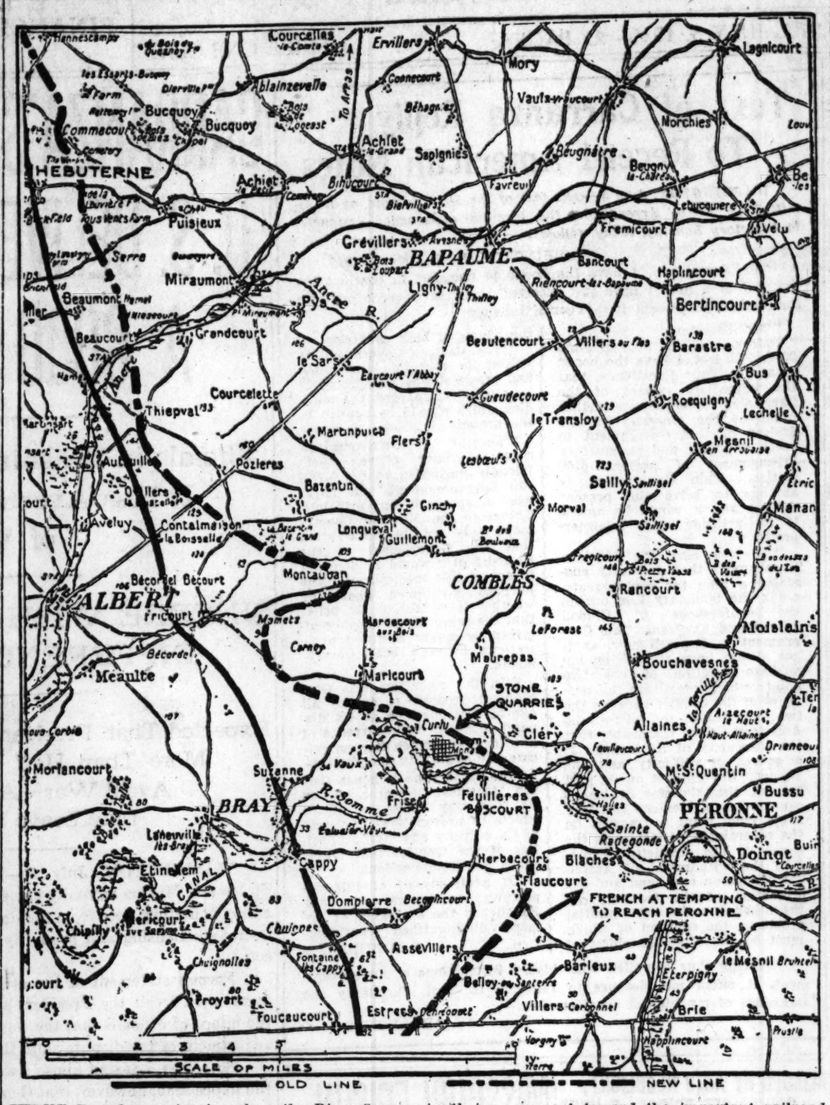

"The Russians have found that maddened horses cannot be stopped by bullets, while the Cossack riders present no easy mark when charging in their peculiar formation. One of Brussiloff's methods in the present advance has been to send cavalry charging upon positions which the artillery had prepared for an attack. The cavalry charges immediately after the infantry, occasionally without infantry.

"The Russian cavalry, besides ability to fight, mounted or afoot, has an advantage over other cavalry, owing to the cheapness and inexhaustible supply of native horses and to their horsemanship."

MOUNTAINS OF BIG AMMUNITION USED IN SOMME FIGHT

Estimated That More Than 1,000,000 Men and 10,000 Cannon Are Engaged.

BERLIN, July 5.—More than a million men and at least 10,000 cannon of all sizes and descriptions are engaged on the front from Verdun to above Arras, in what is considered the greatest battle of the war.

From meager reports received here, it appears the terrific artillery duel exceeds even the concentrated fire of the hundreds of German guns on the French works around Verdun. Mountains of ammunition are being used by the French, English and Germans in the battle raging on both sides of the Somme. The Germans, I am informed, used 37 train loads of 40 cars each in taking Hill 304 at Verdun.

In the battle of the Somme the French and English appear to be attempting to blast their way through the solid German wall.

For the first time during 23 months of war, something approaching concerted pressure and assault of the combined allies appears to be developing against the central empires. On the west front a great English and French offensive is under way, and a terrific battle is raging which may mark the grand climax of the war.

The Russians continue to press upon the Austro-Hungarian forces in Bukowina, and show renewed activity against Hindenberg's lines south of Riga, while at the same time strong advances were attempted against the sector held by Field Marshal Prince Leopold of Bavaria north of Smorgon.

On the Northern Italian border the Austrians retired to more favorable defensive positions. Only in the vicinity of Lutsk and around Verdun is the German offensive initiative keeping up.

Military and Government circles are confident the German line will withstand the combined French-English assault. The German officials report yesterday devoted only six lines to the great battle and offensive on the west front.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN AUTO WITH SIX MEN

Former Massachusetts Representative Among Those Accused of Being Accessories to Crime.

SALEM, Mass., July 5.—Attracted by the mysterious movements of an automobile which had sped up and down Boston street for half an hour early today, Policeman Dennis Healy stopped the car and discovered in it the body of Miss Margaret Ward, 26 years old, a former employe of a store in Peabody.

Six men who were in the car, one of whom was former State Representative Charles R. O'Connell of Peabody, were arrested by Healy. At police headquarters a charge of being accessories to illegal medical practices was placed against the men. Those arrested in addition to the former Representative were his brother, James O'Connell of Lynn, George A. Bardwell, a member of the crew of the United States cruiser Kearsarge; Daniel J. Dineen and William D. Conlin of Salem and Thomas J. Sexton of Peabody, who had driven the car.

Police Sergeant C. A. R. Duffee identified the dead woman as his sister-in-law. According to the police, Miss Ward died after having been placed in the machine.

BRITISH PART IN OFFENSIVE TOLD OF BY STAFF GENERAL

Steps Preceding the General Attack Were All Directed by Gen. Joffre.

OPEN FIGHTING NEAR

French Said to Have Destroyed All of Defensive Works on Somme.

LONDON, July 5.—"Only German soldiers now stand between the French and the River Somme," said Major-General F. B. Maurice yesterday, referring to the part of the river which flows northward to the east of the sector along which the French have made their greatest gains. "The last of the enemy's defensive works in that sector have been captured by our allies."

"Much undeserved obloquy has been heaped upon the British army by English, French and American people because we apparently did nothing to assist the French in the desperate fighting on the Verdun front. But all this time we were doing the part requested by Gen. Joffre.

"According to this plan, we conserved our troops, accumulated supplies and waited the word for the grand offensive in which we were to play our part with the Russians and Italians as well as the French. For tactical and moral reasons which need not be dilated upon, it was necessary that the French should not lose the east bank of the Meuse and Gen. Joffre informed up that he could hold the positions which commanded that part of the river until the end of June, so we knew we were going to strike at the beginning of July.

"The blow planned by the allied general staffs included offensives by the Russians and Italians. We are not disappointed with our own advance, which we expected to be slow, and we are enormously pleased with the wonderful progress made by the French, who, with comparatively light losses, are sweeping forward to the Somme.

Germans Were Surprised.

"It is quite evident the Germans were surprised by the strength of the French offensive. They evidently believed our allies would be kept too busy before Verdun to participate seriously in the western offensive which they knew was coming. Consequently they made extensive preparations before our front, piling up reinforcements there, while comparatively neglecting the southern sector dominated by the French. The Germans, anticipating our move, brought up great forces, much of which consisted of independent units called mousqueton battalions, armed only with light machine guns. It was these battalions which inflicted heaviest losses on us.

"Our enemy is brave and resourceful and put up a desperate defense, especially in the region from Gommecourt to Fricourt, where he evidently expected our main attack. In this region the fighting was especially severe. The chalk formation gave the Germans a splendid chance to make the best use of their miners, who constructed dugouts and other defensive works, which our heaviest shells could not destroy. From the works mousqueton battalions put up a most determined resistance.

Fricourt Hard.

"Physical features made the capture of Fricourt peculiarly difficult and our severe losses there were not unexpected. Montauban was one of the strongest positions occupied by the Germans, but our advance there was brilliant and rapid, without the losses suffered between Gommecourt and Fricourt.

"On the whole, we are well satisfied with our advance. We will continue our artillery preparation, as we have no intention of butting our head against a stone wall.

"The human factor must be considered, and this factor presents some unexpected problems, on the German side, since, after all, the enemy has something to say about the progress of any offensive. We are meeting strenuous opposition. Our progress most certainly will be deliberate. Many places like Fricourt will be taken only after overcoming desperate opposition.

"That our gallant allies should advance faster with smaller losses than we is not only the fortune of war, but may be called poetic justice, since they lost so heavily during the long weeks while we were getting ready to take our share in the great offensive. However, it must be clear now, even to laymen, that the blame heaped on us for not going to the aid of the French before Verdun was quite undeserved, as we are doing exactly what Gen. Joffre requested. And when he gave the word, we sprang to the attack in which we have suffered grievously, but which leads to no regret beyond sorrow for the fallen; for it now is our time to stand the brunt of battle."

Allies Hold Initiative.

"South of the Somme the Germans were completely surprised and our allies will get through to the river without much loss. In that region you may look for immediate developments as the fighting there now is in open field formation, the last of the enemy's works having been captured. A glance at the map will show you that our allies are clear across the network of trenches.

"Further north you will note that while our line now is beyond the first series of German defenses, we are in immediate contact with strongly fortified places.

"We are well content to do our share in the great general allied offensive which already has proven that the initiative, so long in their hands, now is lost by the armies of the central Powers."

FRENCH SURPRISED BY SMALL LOSSES IN GREAT DRIVE

Of an Entire Army Corps (40,000 Men) in Action Only 800 Fell.

SCENES OF FIGHTING

"Go so Far, and Not a Step Further," Officer Told Men About to Advance.

PARIS, July 5.—The astonishing feature of the Picardy battle so far as the French are concerned is the small loss incurred. Reports thus far received show that one army corps which took a permanent part in the fighting lost just 800 men. The regiments which took Flaucourt did not lose a single man. All the wounded who have been brought to Paris hospitals speak of this extraordinary immunity.

"What pleasantly surprised us," said one, "was the few losses. When we climbed out of the trenches we expected to walk into a hail of bullets. Well, I covered a mile and a quarter without hearing one whistle past. It was when we entered the enemy's lines that a Mauser bullet struck my arm. Few of my comrades were hit.

"The Germans literally had been pulverized by our bombardment. Those who were still alive in underground shelters came out at our approach and quietly surrendered.

"The six-day preparatory shelling was terrible. When the time fixed for the attack came our Major said simply, 'Now, boys, the General is counting on you.' Then he explained to us the effect of our attack had in view, ending with the caution, 'and when you get there not an inch further.' We were given three days' rations and off we went.

Task Accomplished Quickly.

"We accomplished the task set us an hour before the time fixed. Helped by sappers, the troops soon put our positions into a state of defense. As for me, I walked back to the ambulance and on the way met cooks carrying pails of hot soup and stew to the newly won trenches."

An eyewitness account of the fighting sums up the results of the first stages of the conflict as follows:

"Our objectives reached within a few hours first and second German lines taken along our entire front; villages captured, occupied and fortified, more than 5000 prisoners. This was the result of the first day of the great battle.

"While it is impossible for any one observer to reconstruct the entire scene of this vast action north and south of the Somme, yet this picture of events in an important sector of the colonial corps will give an idea of the entire range of the operations.

"At 7 o'clock in the morning the rumble of artillery was already forcible, shells hurtled over heads, the earth trembled and the air palpitated with the explosion of monster guns. The effect of our fire on the German position could be plainly seen as great masses of smoke and debris rose high in the air from the burning shells. Before us the villages of Dompiere and Becquincourt were only scattered ruins.

"Huge shells from the enemy's 105 batteries burst in a greenish cloud around us every now and then. In our trenches the men, fully equipped, rifles in hand, are ready. They face the ordeal lightly, one of them saying:

Men in Good Humor.

"'Now we are going to dance the tango,' at which his comrades join in a laugh.

At 8:20 the chief of the battalion gives his last instructions to the officers. Toward 9 o'clock the word runs along the line that the British already have advanced and have taken Mametz.

"Two minutes of silence—and the French artillery resumes its fire with increasing violence.

"The Eleventh company passes; then sections of machine gun operators exchanging 'good-by and good luck;' from the observatory is seen the churning up of the ground and bits of barbed wire. What was Dompierre is under the bursting shells.

"Ten minutes later one man, who had been waiting for a long time in the same place marches off; then others follow slowly and with caution across the debris of barbed wire. Suddenly they begin to run. Clouds of black smoke mixed with that from the 105s descend on them. Now it is the marching guns that fire. The French pass, disappear and advance. Dompierre appears to have been reached.

"An artillery officer appears behind the assauting waves—a certain sign of an advance. Soon prisoners are seen; they are pleading for water. For three days they have had neither drink nor food. The losses they have sustained under the bombardment have been great. Wounded German soldiers, supported by their vanquishers, join the incessant throng of prisoners who now fill up an evacuated trench.

"11:10 a. m., a telephone call says that everywhere the object sought by the brigade has been attained. The orders of the Colonel are not to go beyond the conquered positions and to install themselves solidly. According to instructions, the French are ready to organize and wait. From the trenches prisoners continue to defile."

AMAZING CHANGE IN FIGHTING SCENES ON WESTERN FRONT

Action and Movement Replace Monotony of Warfare From the Trenches.

By an Associated Press Correspondent.

PRESS CAMP IN FRANCE, July ... via London, July 5.—At every turn on the front here realization is forced upon the observer of the immense quantities of materials and men that are being employed in this new offensive. Everywhere the eye can reach are parading and dust-laden soldiers, while on side lines groups of peasants call out to the passing soldier and the drivers of ammunition trains, endlessly going and coming, for the latest news. British and German wounded limp off the field side by side. Ambulances deliver wounded at the dressing stations to be passed on to waiting trains.

Where the Two Lines Join.

Where the British and French lines join there is another world of blue and khaki uniforms and varied kinds of transport vehicles. An automobile of the Associated Press correspondent's day to a point on the battlefield which a week ago was in sight and in range of the German guns. Men were sitting about in the shell craters caused by terrific fire of the British guns. Garden rifles were being gathered into piles and German dead into rows for burial. The correspondent was offered captured German helmets, German officers' revolvers and even a pair of binoculars by the soldiers.

The change from scenes presented by the monotonous trench warfare to those of an advancing army was amazing. From the ruins of the German position between Montauban and Mametz the correspondent looked over the whole field toward the second great line of the German defenses, where the barbed wire entanglements were plainly discernible. From the field won by the British, with its battle litter and silent shell holes, could be seen the point where the battle still raged near Fricourt.

"Good Luck" or "Bad Luck."

Men who were spoken to talked of "good luck" or "bad luck," which meant that they had made the rush across the zone between the old British and German lines against little opposition or that some machine gun had been still in position and sniper had survived the shell fire.

As an instance of the amazing rapidity with which the British troops advanced, a British Colonel took his first real sleep since the fight began in a German dugout, where his predecessor's candle still burned on the table.

There has been a lull in the battle at other points except Montauban, although the general British bombardment continues. The situation at the end of the fourth day with regard to the British positions north of the Ancre is much the same as on the evening of July 1, and south of the Ancre past La Boisselle, the depth of the territory taken increases toward the Somme, until at Montauban it measures about two miles. It further increases on the front of the French before Peronne.

Half-starved Germans are still being found at the bottom of dugouts, 40 feet deep, at Fricourt. Some refused to surrender, so strong was their faith that a German counter-attack would rescue them. The dugouts were blasted out with dynamite.

MISSOURI TROOPS DO FIRST DRILLING AT THE BORDER

Practical Skirmish Line Tactics and Study Rifle Mechanism for Two Hours.

COL. DONNELLY IN MISHAP

Collides With Supply Wagon When Driving New Auto, but Is Uninjured.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LAREDO, Tex., July 5.—The First Missouri Infantry had its first taste this morning of extended order drill and skirmish line tactics under conditions they would undergo in the event of war. The men were put through a strenuous two-hour workout, being instructed especially in mechanism of rifle and necessity of taking advantage of cover in making advances toward hostile lines.

Each company was drilled in the different forms of advancing the skirmish line by squad and platoon rushes and by squad and platoon columns, as Col. Donnelly said this morning the regiment will be assigned to this particular phase of duty along the border until the remainder of the brigade arrives from Nevada.

Mrs. A. B. Donnelly and Mrs. E. H. Burgher arrived this morning. Col. Donnelly last night was driving the new touring car recently purchased by Capt. Charles Marques, regimental quartermaster, near camp, when he collided with a supply wagon. Col. Donnelly was uninjured.

Capt. Frank M. Rumbold of A Battery said arrangements had been made enabling artillerymen to accompany the regular army men of the two batteries of field artillery encamped at Fort McIntosh on daily drills, including maneuvers and instruction in handling the field glass. A Battery carries four three-inch field pieces and eight caissons. Its roster shows 155 men.

The First Battalion of Field Artillery of Missouri, made up of A Battery of St. Louis, B of Kansas City and C of Independence, arrived in Laredo in two sections at 3 p. m. yesterday in a drenching rain, the first in nine months, residents say. It lasted about 10 minutes. The artillerymen immediately detrained and marched to their camp site just south of the First Regiment camp.

Capt. Frank M. Rumbold of A Battery, commenting on the camp site, said: "This is rotten, but I guess the boys will have to get used to it."

The Signal Corps of Kansas City arrived with the battalion of field artillery and encamped west of the First Regiment. The Second Maine Infantry followed the first section, arriving at 4 o'clock, and two other sections coming in later. The Main militiamen, 1000 strong, have a band, composed entirely of University of Maine college men, the organization formerly being the university band.

Men Make Trip Into City.

First Regiment guardsmen were permitted to visit Laredo for the first time yesterday afternoon, but they were kept in camp last night, the officers taking no chances on brawls with Mexican inhabitants.

All citizens in the Mexican town of Nuevo Laredo have been armed by the Carranzistas. First Regiment guardsmen are cautioned not to bathe in the Rio Grande while on "town leave," as it is reported that shots have been fired from the Mexican side at the bathers.

A water supply system has been piped through the camp and its first use was to sprinkle company streets and temporarily lay the dust.

A Battery spent three days and three nights in tourist cars. All the men are in exceptional health and spirits. As the train neared the border the crowds at the stations increased in numbers and enthusiasm. At Dilley, Tex., a group of Mexicans playing baseball cheered the men as they passed.

Army Men on the Front.

Corn beef hash, hard tack, coffee and baked beans was the regular diet on the way from Nevada, supplemented by oranges, soda water, watermelons and pies bought along the way and boxes from home.

The Battery's dog, Spike, missed the train several times but was recovered.

Mail may be addressed to Battery A, First Field Artillery of Missouri, at the front, and will reach the men without further address.

HAIR OFTEN RUINED BY WASHING WITH SOAP

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—ADV.

LAST OF ST. LOUIS MILITIA TO DEPART FOR BORDER TODAY

B Troop to Move With Second Infantry and Hospital Units.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAMP CLARK, NEVADA, Mo., July 5.—The next troop movement from Camp Clark late today will take B Troop of cavalry, the last of the St. Louisans, and the ambulance corps to the border. With them will go the Second Infantry, its band playing the famous "Houn' Dawg" tune and its muscular youths from the Ozarks yelping the words that made South Missouri famous in the campaign four years ago:

"Every time I come to town the boys
all kick my dawg aroun'.
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They've got to quit kickin' my dawg aroun'."

They tried it out early this morning after adopting it as a regimental song. The blaring of the band and the lusty shouting awakened the entire camp. Col. Raupp of Pierce City, the commander of the regiment, has procured for a mascot a flop-eared hound, which will be known to the men on the border as "Old Mizzoo."

B Troop is eager to take the southward trail. As Capt. Butterfield, a six-footer and a soldierly looking officer, stood on the rise before his quarters this morning and watched the St. Louis men making ready to strike their tents he told the Post-Dispatch correspondent that it was the finest bunch of men he has met in his 30 years of national guard service.

No Grumbling.

"I am proud of every one of them," he said. "They came here rather tender from the indoor work that most of them were accustomed to, but they have hardened rapidly. Their training has been severe, but they went about it willingly and intelligently. Not a semblance of complaint or grumbling have I heard. The welfare of these men is my first thought. I personally see that their food is well cooked. Every mother who has a son in my command may rest assured that I will do the best I can for him."

The men have organized the "Troopers' Jubilee Singers," a quartet composed of Harry Brewster, George Heade, Walter O'Neill and Charles A. Guyot. They have not adopted a troop song.

Watching Camp Clark empty itself is like the day after the Fourth of July. As one by one the organizations have gone out, until only the Second and Third Infantry Regiments, B Troop Cavalry, of St. Louis, and hospital units are left, the feeling after each departure has been that of the emptiness that goes with the reaction following an exciting celebration of the national holiday—or a circus.

The departure of the Fourth Infantry Regiment at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon was a stirring event, not only because the men had been held in readiness to entrain since 3 p. m. Monday, and had waited six hours yesterday in a burning sun for a train, but also because the entire brigade staff went along, headed by Brigadier-General Clark. Then, too, it was the largest and most impressive body of men that has gone out in a single movement since the First of St. Louis blazed the trail to the border for the Missourians.

Regiment Up Early.

The Fourth, after bivouacking in "pup" tents Monday night, was up at 4:30 yesterday morning. Its band ushered in Independence day with a few stirring pieces and its men were astir long before the soldiers of other units fell in at reveille. At 9 o'clock the regiment marched by battalions across the prairie to the camp railway station, where the long wait for the trains began.

Patience was rewarded, for the coaches that rolled in at last were standard Pullmans. They were old ones, but comfortable, and they had just been rushed back from taking troops to Texas. Their sides still bore the chalked legends of the Second Illinois Infantry, described therein as "Col. Gerraghty's Go-Getters."

The Fourth had some legends of its own. A crayon artist of H Company had occupied the time of waiting by designing several striking posters to tack on the sides of the cars. One of these depicted a long-haired Mexican humping himself south over the desert, bullet-pierced hat flying behind, with athletic American infantrymen at his heels. The words were, "Company H in Action."

Another showed boys of the Fourth striding over the sands while scared-looking Mexicans hid behind cactus bushes. The daring inscription on this cartoon was, "Show Us (in big letters) a Mexican Bandit." Another poster said "We're Off to Clean Up Mexico," and still another, "We're Goin' to Cape Horn."

The train was in two sections, Gen. Clark and his staff going on the first, which pulled out at 3:30 o'clock. The second section, carrying the last of the Fourth in 13 coaches, left at 4 o'clock. The regiment numbered about 1100.

Third Not Complete.

The Fourth is under the command of Col. John D. McNeely of St. Joseph.

Of the two regiments still here the Third technically is not yet a regiment. Three of its new companies have not been approved and mustered by the War Department. These companies have been inspected and reported upon by a United States Army Officer, but Washington has not yet acted. If these companies are not approved, two battalions of the Third will go to the border as detached organizations.

In no case will the Third be held here longer than Saturday, it was said today by the commanding officers.

The Second Infantry will fold its tents today and prepare to entrain for Laredo when the Missouri Pacific Railroad gets sufficient cars on the siding for the men to move into.

Col. W. A. Raupp yesterday informed his officers that they probably would break camp today. He assured them they would not experience the same difficulties encountered by the Fourth Infantry. Staff officers of the Second say not a tent will be struck until enough cars are on the siding to load the entire regiment.

Knowing persons say the Second Infantry would have moved when the First did but for Col. Raupp's insistent demand for a complete equipment.

"The Second will not go to the border until every man has received every item of his equipment," Col. Raupp is said to have told his superior officers.

Motor Trucks Presented.

The last equipment was issued last night to the Second, when every man received two suits of underwear, four pairs of socks and two pairs of shoes. Four motor trucks were presented to the Second yesterday. The Joplin Supply Co. of Joplin donated three through the Jasper County companies, A, G and I. President Ralston of the supply company made the presentation speech and the trucks were accepted by Lieutenant-Colonel Tucker in a speech of thanks.

The greatest demonstration that has occurred at Camp Clark since the national guard began mobilizing was staged informally and unexpectedly yesterday after Judge Thurman of Nevada had presented a long-eared, bass-voiced hound to the Second for a mascot, and Col. Raupp announced that the 'Houn' Dawg" song hereafter will be the official music of the regiment.

The rigid military discipline of the past two weeks was thrown aside and enthusiasm ran riot as the band started down the regimental street playing the song.

Several hundred men from the Third Infantry and nearly all in the Second were seated on the grass around the Second's band, enjoying its regular evening concert, when Col. Raupp announced the gift of the mascot and an orderly trotted onto the field with the animal in tow. The band leader gave the signal and the band played "The Houn' Dawg" to fast marching time.

An Informal Parade.

Every soldier on the field was on his feet in an instant and the pent-up enthusiasm of two weeks' discipline and hard work broke into a cheer. Without order or orders, the men followed the band as it swung into the regimental street, cheering and singing, and the mob paraded up and down the only thoroughfare in camp until the band was forced to quit from exhaustion.

"Gad, wouldn't that be inspiring music to lead a charge?" Col. Raupp said, as the cheering columns swung past him in quicker than quick-step time. "The man who put the houn's song into military time made an old-fashioned chant into a new classic and put it on the map," said Maj. Smith, commander of the Third Battalion.

All are agreed that, although the Missouri regiments may be separated on the Mexican border, the Second will not lose its identity until it has lost its band, and homesick Missourians will be soothed every evening from the regimental camp by the "Houn' Dawg" song.

Jail Guard's Shoulder Broken.

Otto Price, a jail guard, living at 1730 Olive street, applied at the central dispensary last night for treatment for a fractured shoulder. He said he was knocked down and kicked by a stranger on the Lemay Ferry road near the Meramec River.

TIRED LOOKING WOMEN

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervousness, neurasthenia perhaps, with its characteristic symptoms of worry, headaches and sleeplessness.

Overwork, grief, undue excitement, the late hour and nervous strain of a strenuous social season, lack of out-of-door exercise, any or all of these may be responsible for the trouble, but the most common cause at this season of the year is the grip.

Whatever the cause, if you feel the need of more strength try the great non-alcoholic tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As the nerves get the nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50.

the patient in an unscreened room with flies crawling over the sick baby's face. Screens or instant removal to the hospital, was the order in every case.

The visitors found that a common belief prevailed among parents that after the fever—which commonly leaves the patient in a few days—had subsided the danger from infection was over, and spent a good deal of time in explaining the necessity for a quarantine of eight weeks at least.

It is these children who are believed by parents to be well except for "trouble with the feet," who are believed to be to a considerable extent responsible for the spread of the infection. One case came to light yesterday of three children who had been allowed at large on the street, one on foot and another in a baby carriage, for several days. They were discovered by chance when a physician noticed two boys walking with difficulty.

A visit was paid to the mother, who informed the physician that the boys had been sick with fever two weeks ago. She treated them at her home and after two or three days, after finding that the fever had subsided, told them to go out of doors, believing that exercise was just the thing they needed. They went out and have since been playing with other children.

As the system is at present, each building where infantile paralysis occurs is marked at once with a poster calling attention to the illness within, warning all persons not to enter, and forbidding the person who is ill from leaving the premises until he receives permission from the Health Department.

Renovation, according to the rules of the department, consists in washing the floors with a solution of hot salsoda and water, repapering the walls. If the walls are painted they must have a fresh coat of paint. Ten days after the removal of the patient is allowed the landlord to do this.

Although Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute, in March 1913, announced his discovery of the very small germ—it proved to be the smallest disease germ ever discovered, something like one ten-thousandth the size of a red corpuscle of the blood—which he gave the very big name "poliomyelitis," the germ of infantile paralysis, no one has found how to destroy it or make a person immune from it.

About all that is known about it is that the pestilence is not a blood germ; it makes its home in the mucus membranes of the body, especially the throat, nose and intestines, and it can be spread in any one of a dozen ways. The house fly is given a large part of the blame for distributing it, but the germs may be transmitted through dirty handkerchiefs that victims have used, in the expectorations which find their way to food children eat, especially milk, and on the breath of the afflicted. Unhappily, as no one young or old is immune, and as a person may be a carrier and distributor of the germs and not be aware of the fact, it is one of the most dangerous of the known diseases.

Dr. Flexner's discovery has been verified both by the microscope—not the usual instrument of the scientist, but by the most highly developed of them all—and by his use of the germ on monkeys. He has found that only two creatures beside human beings can have infantile paralysis—a monkey and a barnyard hen. Neither of them will provide a serum that is efficacious on a child. Those good old standbys in the supplying of serum, the cow and the horse, will not "take" yet. Dr. Flexner has produced infantile paralysis in a monkey by injecting the germ from the human being and carried it on from monkey to monkey, showing the power of the stuff obtained, but when turned back on human beings it fails in its work.

In ordinary cases the affliction comes in unmistakable form. There is a sudden change from good health into a state of high fever. Intestinal troubles, headache, irritability, pains in the chest, in the bones, the legs, arms, spine and neck, one or all follow fast.

Then comes, within 12 hours usually, or it may be delayed several days, the terrible paralysis. The muscles collapse, the foot, arm, leg, neck, whichever be the afflicted part, twists, turns falls as the weight inclines it. Death does not invariably follow, though the percentage of deaths is horrifying. There have been recoveries with slight if any permanent injuries, but most often the victim is marked for life, with horrible shriveling and other distortions of body and frequently weakened mentality.

What causes infantile paralysis no one knows. Where do the germs go when the epidemic is stamped out? No one knows. Lack of proper food—not lack of quantity or quality—may subject the child to the attack, but from what source the first attack is coming no one knows.

There being no known cure, the physician simply does the best he can. The fever is broken up if possible through the usual methods. The body is fed such appropriate food as it will assimilate and the patient is made as comfortable as conditions permit. When the paralysis comes and the muscles lose their power the afflicted part is bandaged in position, so that when nature again becomes friendly and by its own methods or through the agency of massage or other means the muscles begin to build up they find their duties just where they left off.

Chicago Taking Precautions Against Infantile Paralysis.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 5.—Eighteen city physicians under the direction of Dr. John Dill Robertson, Chicago Health Commissioner, are watching incoming trains from the East as a precautionary measure against the possible development of an epidemic of infantile paralysis, such as is said to be prevalent in New York. It is planned to keep up the inspection of trains for two weeks or more.

So far no cases were reported from any of the Eastern trains. An inspection of the city resulted in one child being placed under observation.

Four Infantile Paralysis Cases in Illinois County.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 5.—Four cases of infantile paralysis were discovered in the Italian section of Standard, Putnam County, Ill., yesterday and steps were taken immediately by the State Board of Health to avert an epidemic of the disease and an investigation was started to trace the source of infection.

All Italians from the community of Standard, in Putnam County, who leave the State will be closely watched and their destinations reported to the health officials of whatever State they are bound for. This announcement was made today by Dr. St. Clair Drake, head of the State Board of Health, following his investigation of the outbreak of infantile paralysis. Dr. Drake has asked the New York board and the United States Health Board to notify him of any Italians leaving the area in New York where the disease prevails.

DON'T TAKE CHILDREN EAST THIS SUMMER, SAYS DOCTOR

Epidemic of Infantile Paralysis in New York City Makes Action Unadvisable Says Dr. John Zahorsky, a Specialist.

Dr. John Zahorsky, a St. Louis specialist in children's diseases, who has made a study of infantile paralysis, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had advised several families not to take their children to Eastern resorts this summer, because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the City of New York.

This advice, he said, would not apply to families which had their own cottages at isolated places. For such, he believes there would be very little danger. But there would be danger, he says, in crowded hotels, at public bathing beaches and on board walks.

Because of the number of cases of infantile paralysis in New York, Dr. Zahorsky thinks it likely that cases will appear at various places along the coast.

At present, he said, there is no indication that the disease will appear here, or at the lake resorts of the central states. It makes its appearance unexpectedly, and sometimes in unexplained ways, and the summer is commonly the time when it becomes prevalent.

Dr. G. A. Jordan, Assistant Health Commissioner, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that St. Louis, fortunately, was singularly free of infantile paralysis. This he attributed to the campaign against the house fly, which, he points out, is the best known transmitter of the disease.

Dr. Jordan asserts the only protection against the disease is to fortify one's family by an effort to exterminate the fly and the exercise of care in the preparation of fly-contaminated foods. All food likely to come in contact with flies should be thoroughly washed and cooked and care taken that flies do not touch it after it is served at table, he advises.

Health Department records show the last case of infantile paralysis was reported here in April. But six cases were noted in the 12 months prior thereto. Dr. Jordan maintains that it has been definitely established that flies feeding on dead animals, decayed matter or filth pick up the germs and carry them to children or foods.

While the disease is largely prevalent among small children, Dr. Jordan points out that adults may take it. He says there is danger of older persons carrying the germ home, and he advises that persons with children refrain from visiting homes where the disease is present. Dr. Jordan also advises, in case of epidemic, that parents take healthy children away to safe places.

"Watch the Food Your Children Eat," Says Dr. Saunders.

Dr. E. W. Saunders of 1540 South Grand avenue, three summers ago, made an experimental study of infantile paralysis, and satisfied himself, and many other practitioners of high standing, that the fly is connected with the spread of the disease. Dr. Saunders suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning, a few days ago, and is ill at his home.

He said, following his researches of three years ago, that no child should be permitted to eat out of doors, during the fly season, unless protected by mosquito netting. No bread, cold meat, fruit or other article which attracts flies, should be eaten by children until it has been sterilized by heat. This applies to cookies, doughnuts and all bread stuffs.

Dr. Saunders also condemned the system of transporting garbage in open wagons, saying this plan was almost as perilous to the public as it would be to let the garbage lie in the alleys. The garbage should be covered, and wagons should be sprayed with compounds like those used by dairymen, he said, to keep flies at a distance.

His theory was that the germ of infantile paralysis is deposited by flies in the breadstuffs or other cold food, and hence, that any child eating such food which has been exposed to flies, and which has not been sterilized by heat, is in danger of contracting the disease.

Dr. Saunders also pursued the theory that infantile paralysis is concurrent, in the times and places of its appearance, with the disease known as "limberneck" in chickens. He conducted a series of experiments, and succeeded in infecting a monkey with germs from a chicken, borne in the larvae of a fly, which caused the monkey's death from paralysis. This demonstration, which was conducted in a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society, lacked the final element of conclusiveness, since it was impossible to prove, in the same manner, that a child could receive the disease in the way that the monkey did. Nevertheless, Dr. Saunders' theory made a strong impression on medical men, and was recognized as one of the ablest attempts made toward solving the perplexing problem of the origin of this disease.

How to Safeguard Children Against Infantile Paralysis

NEW YORK, July 5.—Dr. Abraham Jacobi, one of the most widely known child specialists in the East today, gave to the Post-Dispatch correspondent the following advice on the best means of avoiding infantile paralysis:

"Isolate every case and for six weeks send no child to school, church or any amusement place from a family that has had a case.

"The cause is microbic bacteria, which enter through the nose and throat. Allow no operation on the nose or throat while the epidemic lasts.

"Sore lips and nose should be touched with fine boric acid every few hours.

"Irrigate both sides of the nose from a medicine dropper—several times a day with warm water in which 5 or 10 per cent boric acid is dissolved.

"Never use raw milk, even the best. Pasteurize or boil it. Scurvy is not caused by heated milk, unless it is the only food. Heating destroys tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid germs.

"Ask your doctor for advice, not your neighbor. Use no advertised drugs."

WILLIAM DESMOND FUNERAL TO TAKE PLACE TOMORROW

Was Famous as Detective Chief and as Questioner of Suspected Prisoners.

William Desmond, 62 years old, who was Chief of Detectives of St. Louis from 1890 to 1907, died at the Alexian Brothers' Hospital at noon yesterday. The funeral will be at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow from 4290 Page boulevard, where he lived with his sister, Miss Maria Desmond, and his 12-year-old son, William Desmond Jr. Services will be at St. Ann's Catholic Church.

Desmond's health had been failing for two years and he had been in the hospital since last October, under treatment for a nervous collapse. His wife died several years ago.

Since he resigned from the Police Department nine years ago, he had been conducting a private detective agency in partnership with John Keely, who worked under him as a city detective.

Famous for Handling Prisoners.

Although he never studied psychology of crime as a science, Desmond's natural instinct for reasoning hidden motives gave him a wide reputation. He guessed at things with an accuracy that was uncanny.

It was Desmond's ability to read what was in the subject's mind that contributed very largely to his success as a "sweater." The suspect was frequently led to believe by the detective's line of questioning that he knew more than he really did. Desmond's power of suggestion, too, was an important contributor to his influence over criminals.

By building up in a roundabout way a fictitious self-defense plea he frequently trapped murderers into confessing their guilt. He would suggest that they had killed in defending their own lives and after they had fallen into that trap he would begin to tear down the self-defense plea by suggesting that the murderer had been provoked. While leading the prisoner through a maze of various defenses he would be accumulating enough evidence gathered from the suspect's own admissions to make corroboration easily obtainable and the net result was that when the case was presented in court, the State would have evidence that did not depend upon the defendant's confession.

Attorneys representing accused men made the most of Desmond's "sweat box." They pictured it as a chamber of horrors and sometimes led jurors to believe that there was an electrical contrivance in connection with it that tortured men into confessing things of which they were innocent.

As a matter of fact, the "sweat box" was an ordinary chair. The phrase was coined by newspaper men. The "sweating" process was nothing more than a series of rapid fire questions put from so many different angles that a suspect could not dodge them all and finally broke down after he had been caught in a net of lies.

"I want you to tell me the truth. You know a liar is worse than a thief. If you lie I am going to use it against you in court."

Those were some of the phrases that Desmond invariably used when "sweating" his man. He would make the prisoner sit up straight in the chair, keep both feet on the floor, keep his hands in his lap, look him straight in the eye and resort to all sorts of little tricks to bring the prisoner under his domination.

Although he obtained thousands of confessions in his career, some of which were startling in their character, Desmond prided himself on the capture of the Hedgepeth-Slye gang of train robbers. He considered that his greatest bit of detective work.

Envelope Gives Robbery Clew.

An express train had been held up at Glendale and the robbers escaped with about $50,000. The identity of the robbers was a mystery until a man living on Swan avenue found a piece of the express company's envelope in a shed. He gave Desmond a description of the occupants of the house who had moved in and out just prior to and just after the train robbery, together with a description of an express wagon which had hauled their trunks to Union Station.

Desmond found the expressman learned the destination of the trunks. The result was the capture of Marion Hedgepeth and his brother-in-law, Adelbert Slye. Both were convicted. Hedgepeth got 25 years, but was pardoned at the expiration of 20 years through the efforts of Desmond himself who rewarded the robber for having giving him a valuable tip while in jail.

In his 31 years on the force Desmond was never before the Police Board on charges. He was a teetotaler, and very seldom smoked.

Noted for Fighting Ability.

In his early days on the force Desmond was noted for his fighting ability. He never allowed a prisoner to get away from him, and in the old days of the "Bloody Third" district resisting arrest was a popular pastime.

It was often related how Desmond had fought with a dangerous criminal on the ice-coated streets around Third and Christy in midwinter and how both the prisoner and captor finally rolled into the police station showing signs of a hard-fought battle.

In the neighborhood of 1710 O'Fallon street, where he was reared, Desmond was always known as "Bill Dez." Stories of his natural shrewdness were current in that neighborhood. One of these had to do with a robber whom he captured by sending him a written invitation to visit him at his home. A clerk in a store had been overpowered and robbed by two men, one of whom escaped. Theodore Schlottman, the other robber was captured.

Invites Robber to Visit Him.

Desmond sweated Schlottmen for several days and in an unguarded moment Schlottman revealed the name of a small town in North Dakota where his "pal" probably could be found. Desmond wrote a letter to the fugitive and signed it with Schlottman's name. The letter informed the fugitive that they were not suspected of the robbery and instructed him to return to St. Louis and meet Schlottman at 1710 O'Fallon street, as there was a chance to pull off another "good job."

The man in North Dakota took the bait. He arrived a few mornings later at Desmond's residence. Desmond answered the bell. He told the visitor that Schlottman no longer lived there, but he would take him to the place where he then lived. He took him to the city jail. Both robbers were convicted.

One of the few men from whom Desmond failed to get a confession was Ben Kilpatrick, leader of gang which held up and robbed a Great Northern train at Wagner, Mont., in 1900, and stole $83,000 from the express car. A part of the loot was unsigned bank notes. Several of these notes were passed in St. Louis and Desmond's men traced these to Kilpatrick. He was arrested. Desmond sweated him for days, but could not induce him to confess. Then he took other means to collect evidence. He learned that a woman who had been stopping at the Laclede Hotel was an accomplice of Kilpatrick. Through this woman he obtained the evidence which fastened the train robbery on Kilpatrick and helped to convict him.

Desmond worried himself sick, his friends say, in his efforts to get back on the force. He was not seeking the remuneration, as he was reputed to have an independent fortune. He wanted vindication. He always contended that the Stewart Police Board had dealt unfairly with him in reducing him during the detective graft investigation and he wanted to be reinstated, he said, just to convince his friends that politics had a lot to do with his retirement. Desmond's friends said in his behalf that the detectives under him accused of graft were pets of influential politicians and that Desmond could not have had them removed, even had he known they were grafting.

Desmond was once asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter if he could suggest any preventive of crime.

"Well," he said, "that is a broad question, but I can tell that the best preventive of burglary is a small dog in the house. Burglars have told me that when the dog begins to bark they picture the man in the house getting up and waiting for them in the dark with a 'cannon.' When a burglar finds a small dog on the job he gets out as fast as he can."

POLICE RESCUE MAN FROM STRIKING GARMENT WORKERS

Police were called at Eleventh street and Washington avenue early this morning to stop a fight among striking employes of the Loth-Hoffman Co., pants manufacturers. Louis Haecht, an operator, was the center of a lively melee and was escorted from the scene, after which quiet prevailed. Haecht, it is said, was trying to enter the building to go to work but failed to run the line of pickets.

Nearly 200 men and women operators of the factory went on strike Friday morning rather than become affiliated with the United Garment Workers of America, according to Frank Rosenbium, representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, of which organization about half of the employes of the firm are members. Morris Hoffman, vice president of the company, said, however, that only 50 employes are out. Both say the strike was precipitated by demands of the United Garment Workers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, that the factory become a closed shop.

"There is no question of wages or working conditions involved," said Hoffman. "It is only a dispute between unions, and we cannot consistently recognise both."

Cremation Does Not Burn the Body

In 1885 there were 28 cremations in America; more than 2000 in 1900; and in 1913, the last year for which records are complete, 10,183 people in the United States chose that their bodies be cremated.

THE trend in favor of cremation is growing rapidly. The process does not envelop the body in flames, as is mistakenly supposed by many people. It restores the elements of our earthly bodies to nature—to the sunlight and the air—in a way that is sanitary and economical, consistent with the tenderest sentiments of human love, and in accord with the doctrines of Christianity.

Frances Willard said

That in providing for her body to be cremated, she was serving the cause of poor, oppressed humanity after her death, as she had tried to serve it in life.

A realization of the shocking desecration that burial beneath the earth brings upon the bodies of our dead, leads thinking people to accept the custom of cremation with a feeling of grateful relief.

PEACE CANNOT BE MADE NOW, BRYCE DECLARES

Germany Not Prepared for Terms Allies Could Accept, He Tells Pilgrims.

LONDON, July 5.—Presiding today at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims to James M. Beck, former Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, Viscount Bryce said he had received an address signed by some Americans, a large proportion of whom had come from Germany, saying "the war must end in a draw; why not make peace at once and save further bloodshed?"

He would tell the guests of the day, Viscount Bryce continued, why neither the British nor their allies could follow that advice. He yielded to none in his love of peace, but he declared "We cannot agree to any such peace as is suggested either by these gentlemen or by the German Government.

"In the first place, we do not think this war will be a 'draw.' The allies are going to win. We believe it because the allies will prove to be the stronger on land than the Germans, and because we hold unshaken and unshakable control of the sea.

"Secondly, peace cannot be made now because the German Government is not prepared for it on any terms we could accept. The German Government may know they are going to be beaten, but the German people do not yet know it.

"Thirdly, because peace made now on such terms as the German Government would accept would be no permanent peace, but a mere truce. It would mean for Europe constant disquiet, fresh alarms of war, more preparations for war and further competition in prodigious armament.

Lastly, because we are fighting for great principles—principles vital to the future of mankind, principles which the German Government outraged and which must at all costs be vindicated.

"We do not hate the German people; we do not wish to break up Germany nor destroy her national unity nor inflict permanent injury upon her. What we desire is to exorcise an evil spirit and discredit the military caste which delights in war and threatens not only this, but all countries—American included."

In concluding, Viscount Bryce said that Great Britain was fighting for the deliverance of Belgium and France and such changes in the East as will make it impossible for the Turkish allies of Germany "ever again to massacre their Christian subjects."

UNITED SHOES MACHINERY CO. REPLIES TO OUSTER SUIT

Denies in Local Court That Corporation Has Violated Provisions of Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

The answer of the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Boston, to the ouster suit of the United States was filed in the United States District Court at St. Louis today. The answer denies that the shoe machinery company violated any oft he provisions of the Clayton anti-trust act, and states especially that the so-called "trying clauses," under which shoe manufacturers using the company's machines are prohibited from using any other and are required to pay big royalties and comply with numerous other restrictive conditions, are a violation of the law. The answer was signed by Sidney S. Winslow, president of the shoe machinery company.

All the St. Louis shoe manufacturers use the machines of the company, and it is estimated that more than $50,000 a month is paid in royalties by the local manufacturers.

CANNED BAKED BEANS SCARCE

Army Orders Are Curtailing Supply at Packing Plants.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 5.—Baked beans—especially the canned kind—may soon be as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth, according to an announcement made here by a large canning company which has notified its salesmen to take no future orders. The reason given is that the Government is buying all the beans it can find, and therefore, the product will probably not be available for public use.

Canned pork and beans are among the principal foodstuffs used in the army and navy.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN AND GIRL DROWNED ON JULY 4 OUTINGS

Youth Who Was Using "Water Wings" in the Meramec Is Missing.

CHILD TAKES SISTER DOWN

Elder Was Trying to Rescue Younger, Who Was Swimming in Missouri River.

Two young women and a girl 12 years old, members of Fourth of July outing parties, were drowned yesterday near St. Louis. A man who is missing is thought to have lost his life in the Meramec.

Miss Florence Thomure, 17 years old, of 3960 Lincoln avenue, and her 12-year-old sister, Catherine, were drowned in the Missouri River near the Burlington Railroad bridge, the older sister losing her life when she attempted to rescue the younger.

They were members of a family party which had been near Fort Bellefontaine since Saturday. Their father, William A. Thomure, president of the Thomure Painting Co., took his wife and their five children for the outing.

Child Drags Sister Down.

All were considered good swimmers, and it had been the custom for them to go into the water several times a day. Miss Florence Thomure sat on the bank yesterday afternoon watching her younger sister swim, when suddenly Catherine called for help. Florence plunged into the water to save her. The child caught her sister about the neck and both sank.

Thomure attempted in vain to reach them in a boat. Divers attempted to recover the bodies. They had not been successful this morning.

Miss Agnes Lange, 22 years old, of 5515 Idaho avenue, was drowned in the Meramec near Valley Park. She was being taught to swim by Henry J. Franke of 4142 Michigan avenue. He stationed himself in shallow water a few yards downstream from the place where she entered the water, with the intention of preventing her from being carried downstream by the current. In repeating this several times Franke gradually moved downstream, finally reaching a place where a sand company had dredged the river until the water is 30 feet deep.

Slips Backward Into Hole.

Franke accidentally slipped backward into this hole just as Miss Lange reached him. Finding herself beyond her depth, she clutched at a strap on Franke's bathing suit and was in such a position that he could not swim. In his struggles he released her hold, but failed in an attempt to grasp her. He was rescued by a passing boatman. Her body has not been recovered.

Steve Cokas, 19 years old, an employe at the Acme Restaurant, 203 North Broadway, is thought to have been drowned at Highland Landing, on the Meramec. He could not swim, but entered the water equipped with "water wings." He became separated from Thomas Constant, who had accompanied him to the river. The "water wings" were found floating, but no trace of Cokas was found.

THREE FIREMEN HURT WHEN CAR STRIKES LADDER TRUCK

Tillerman's Skull Is Fractured, Ladderman Suffers Broken Shoulder and Captain Is Cut and Bruised

Three firemen were injured last night when a ladder truck stationed at 732 North King's highway, answering a false alarm from Euclid and Cote Brilliante avenues, was struck and overturned by a Wellston car at Easton and Euclid avenues.

Albert Gredell of 1210 North Euclid avenues, tillerman, was thrown in front of the car, his body lodging between the fender and the front trucks. He was sent to the city hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull. James Haberstroh of 3006 North Newstead avenue, ladderman, suffered a fracture of the left shoulder. Capt. Thomas Farrell of 779 Aubert avenue suffered serious cuts and bruises.

Witnesses said the car was moving down grade at high speed. The conductor, Vincent Scott of 3618 St. Ferdinand street, and the motorman, Michael Conway of 3650 Greer avenue, were arrested.

BLANK CARTRIDGES CAUSE 14 OF 31 FOURTH ACCIDENTS

Many Are Fired in City Despite Ordinance Forbidding Their Use.

Blank cartridge pistols, the use of which is forbidden by law, caused 14 of 31 Fourth of July accidents which were reported to the St. Louis police. In most cases the wounds inflicted were in the hands of those holding the pistols. These wounds are dangerous in their possibilities, and will require careful attention for several days.

In three other cases boys were wounded by bullets from loaded pistols or rifles. Other accidents were caused by large firecrackers, Roman candles, toy cannons and loose gunpowder.

John Kraft, 22 years old, of 7119 Alabama avenue, was burned about the face by the explosion of a toy cannon, in which he was ramming a charge. The sight of both his eyes is in danger.

A sparkler, supposedly harmless, set fire to the dress worn by Mary Harrison, 6 years old, of 3952 Shenandoah avenue, as she played in a neighbor's yard. She was burned about the legs and body, and is in a serious condition.

Leslie Thorpe, 14, of 4178 Castleman avenue, was burned about the face and head, through setting off gunpowder with a match. Joseph Hood, 42, of 3854 Fairview avenue, was walking at Grand avenue and Cherokee street when one of a wagon load of roisterers threw a firecracker which burst near his face, causing severe burns.

In years before the "safe and sane Fourth" idea came to prevail the number of annual Fourth of July accidents ranged from 120 to 160, and usually included at least one outright killing. The first "safe and sane" year was 1909, and the idea has gained strength every year since.

Fireworks Exhibition in Forest Park Feature of Day.

The Nation's Birthday Association, of which Probate Judge Holtcamp is president, gave a free fireworks' exhibition last night at Art Hill in Forest Park, in connection with its safe and sane celebration.

Judge Holtcamp, shortly before noon yesterday, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the Executive Committee, at a meeting Monday night, had decided to abandon the plan for night fireworks because the association had not received sufficient contributions to meet this expense. In the afternoon, Judge Holtcamp said, he was informed that arrangements had been made which enabled the association to carry out its evening plans.

NEW YORK PAID THIRD OF TOTAL U. S. INCOME TAX

Of $124,867,320 Collected, $85,000,000 Came From Empire State, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Four states, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts, paid more than $85,000,000 of the $124,867,329 in income taxes turned into the national treasury during the fiscal year of 1916 which ended June 30. A table issued by Secretary McAdoo of payments by internal revenue districts shows that New York alone paid $45,230,679, and that the greatest percentage of increase which raised the total from the $80,000,000 collected last year came from the four states, headed by New York.

Among districts which paid well over $1,000,000 into the fund is Missouri with $1,583,235 and $1,206,727.

4 PERSONS SHOT BY BANK ROBBERS IN KANSAS TOWN

Woman Among Those Wounded and Another Woman Is Said to Have Driven Burglar's Car.

$2400 TAKEN FROM SAFE

High Power Rifle and Shotgun Used in Fusillade, After Wire Connections Are Cut.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 5.—Three men in a motor car that was reported to have been driven by a woman blew open the safe of the State bank at St. Mary's, 25 miles west of here, early today, and escaped with $2400. R. J. Best, City Marshal, Mrs. James Howard, her son, Clay Howard, and Will Ehrbacher were shot trying to drive off the robbers.

After unloading the robbers, the driver of the car turned it around and stood guard over the main street of the town to prevent citizens from rushing the robbers at their work in the bank building. Best was shot through the lungs. He is in a Topeka hospital in a serious condition and may die.

Ehrbacher, Mrs. Howard and her son were shot by the robbers as they ran to the bank to try to prevent the robbery.

The motor car drove into town and up to the telephone office. A man climbed up a pole just outside the office and cut the cables leading to Topeka. The telegraph wires were also cut just east of town.

The night telephone operator heard the men at work and called the City Marshal and also the policy of Topeka before the wires went down.

The robbers went to the bank across the street, one shot a hole through the plate-glass window and two climbed into the counting room, while the third and the driver stood guard in the street.

The safe was blown open in a few minutes and the money taken out. The robbers were in their car almost before the town knew there had been a robbery.

Best came running down the street toward the bank and was shot by one of the robber guards, who used a high-power rifle. Ehrbacher, Mrs. Howard and her son were struck by buckshot from a shotgun said to have been fired by the driver.

As the robbers left the bank building they began firing up and down the street at those who had heard the explosion and were coming out of their houses.

PARK CAMP FOR MOTHERS AND BABIES OPEN TONIGHT

Eighty Cots in Readiness for Women and Children, With Big Tent—Accommodations Are Free.

The Mothers' and Babies' Free Outdoor Camp, in Lafayette Park, will open tonight. Health Commissioner Starkloff is expected to attend the meeting. The local branch of the National Congress of Mothers is in charge of the camp, which has a large tent on the Park avenue side of the park.

Children up to 3 years of age, with their mothers, are received. There are 80 cots for the babies and their mothers, and street car tickets are furnished to those who need them. In some cases, mothers of young children are permitted to bring with them children older than three.

Mrs. A. Siebert of 3970 Flad avenue, chairman in charge of the camp, said today that plans were being made for a similar camp in Jackson place, a small city park at Eleventh and North Market streets.

SLASHES WIFE AND ANOTHER WOMAN, THEN CUTS HIS THROAT

Man, Separated From Wife, Enraged When He Finds Their Children With Her.

James Lawson, 38 years old, of 821 North Sixteenth street, became enraged last evening when he saw his three children playing with fireworks in the yard at 2124 O'Fallon street. He believed that they were in an orphanage, where they had been sent by the Juvenile Court after he and his wife, Mrs. Lottie Lawson, had separated.

Going into the house, Lawson found his wife. She was staying there with Mrs. Lulu Schweiss. He demanded to be told why the children were not at the orphanage, and when his wife told him that she had taken them for the day so that they could properly celebrate the Fourth, he drew a knife and slashed her across the neck.

Mrs. Schweiss went to Mrs. Lawson's rescue and was cut on the right arm. Lawson then cut his own throat. He and his wife were removed to the city hospital. The children were sent to the Mothers' and Children's Home, 3400 School street, where they had been placed by the Juvenile Court. They range in age from 5 to 9 years.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Discolored or freckled skin, so common at this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably young and healthy.

Sun, winds and flying dust often cause squints and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every line, however caused, by using a harmless wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.—ADV.

IDEAL DEMOCRACY IS NATION'S NEED, HUGHES DECLARES

Republican Nominee Hopes for New Sentiment for Unity, From Present Perils.

BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y., July 5.—Charles E. Hughes, speaking at the nearby village of Easthampt, told a Fourth of July audience that what America needs just now above all other things is an intelligent comprehension of the ideals of democracy. He asserted that the nation needs more than thrills in its patriotism and said his dream of America was of a country officered by its best men, actuated by no thought of self. He devoutly hoped, the nominee declared, for a new birth of the sentiment of unity from the country's present perils.

"We are not a rash people," he said. "We are not filled with a spirit of militarism. We are not anxious to get into trouble, but if anybody thinks that the spirit of service and sacrifice is lost and that we have not got the old sentiment of self-respect he doesn't understand the United States."

Mr. Hughes spoke from a knoll on the village green after motoring over from his summer home here to review the village preparedness parade.

Learning to Talk Again.

"I have been long on silence and very short on talk," he said. "It is an odd experience that I am going through, picking up the threads of old relations. I think I have lived at least five years in the last three weeks.

"One of the pleasantest incidents of my return is to be sojourning with you in the shadow of the American flag. Wherever that flag floats there is a shrine. I don't care in what part of this favored land exercises in celebration of the anniversary of our independence are held there is cause of rejoicing because of the opportunities which only institutions like ours can afford.

"It is all very well to talk about the Declaration of Independence and the strong sentiments which it contains, but that was backed by men—men who couldn't have indited it, men who couldn't have committed it to memory, men who couldn't have repeated, but men in whose lives was the incarnation of independence and whose spirit was breathed into that immortal document.

"It is because we had men who were willing to suffer, to die, to venture and to sacrifice that we had the country and it is only by that spirit that we ever will be able to keep a country. I love to think of those hardy men coming here with the spirit that led all pioneers farther and farther west, the same spirit which in every part of our land has accounted for our development.

Americans Not a Rash People.

"Quiet men, not noisy men; sensible men, not foolish men; straight men, honest men, dependable men, real men — that is what we mean by Americanism. There is a vast amount of good judgment in this country, much more than the headlines of our newspapers seem to indicate. There is a vast amount of thoughtfulness in this country. We are not a rash people. We are not filled with a spirit of militarism We are not anxious to get into trouble, but if anybody thinks that the spirit of service and sacrifice is lost and that we have not got the old sentiment of self-respect, he doesn't understand the United States.

"I am not going to make a speech, but I do want to say a word to you along these lines: We want patriotism, and I don't think we are going to lose it very soon, although I do devoutly hope that out of the perils and difficulties of this time may come a new birth of the sentiment of unity. I do hope that in the midst of all these troublesome conditions we have a better realization of our national strength and of the import of our democratic institutions.

"The boy is going to thrill at the sight of the flag today just as he did 50 years or a hundred years ago. We are all going to thrill when we hear the word's of our national hymn, and when we think of the long years of struggle and determination that have brought us to this hour. But we want something more than thrills in our patriotism; we want thought, we want intelligence.

"We need not vast extent of territory, not great population, not simply extraordinary statistics of national wealth, although they speak in eloquent words of energy and managing ability; but what we need more than anything else is an intelligent comprehension of the ideals of democracy.

Measure of Genuine Democracy.

"Those ideals are that every man shall have a fair and equal chance according to his talents. It is not an ideal of democracy that one alone shall emerge because of conspicuous ability, but that there shall be a great advance of the plain people of the country, upon whom the prosperity of the country depends.

"We deplore every condition in which we find man lower than he should be under a free government. We want victories of democracy that the level of success shall be raised.

"My dream of America is America represented in public office by its best men, men working entirely for the good of the republic and according to the laws and ordinances established by the people for the government of their conduct and not for their personal or political desires and ambitions; America working her institutions as they were intended to be worked, with men whose sole object shall be to secure the end for which their officers were designed.

"And if one will throw his personal fortune to the winds, if he will perform in each place, high or low, the manifest obligations of that place, we will soon have those victories of democracy which will make the Fourth of July in its coming years a far finer and nobler day than it has ever been in the fortunate years of the past."

Remember how your mother always kept her fruit in a dark place in the cellar?

Why?

Light starts a chemical change in fruit, rendering it unfit for use.

The same way with beer. The ultra violet rays of light start chemical changes that impair the nutritive value.

In Schlitz this nutritive value is unimpaired—light cannot harm it.

The Brown Bottle keeps out the light and protects it from the brewery to your glass. That's why it tastes so good.

T. R. SAYS HE PREFERS WAR TO THE PRESENT PEACE

Tells Home-Town Folk He'll Let Them Volunteer With Him If Fight Comes.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 5.—Theodore Roosevelt, called on by his fellow-villagers for a speech at a Fourth of July celebration here yesterday for the first time in several years, asserted that he preferred war to the peace that the United States is at present having with Mexico. He added that in the event of an actual declaration of war and a call for volunteers, he would give his home folk the first opportunity to join with him in proffering their services to the Government.

Col. Roosevelt declared, however, that he would rally around him the single men and those without families dependent upon them rather than choose promiscuously from all classes of men, as in the case of the militiamen now called to the border. The Colonel said in part:

"Some time I shall speak to my own people in this town and say to them with all my heart how I believe in universal military service in time of war. I want to see every young man trained, in the first place, to help him in all his relations in peaceful pursuits; to be trained so that when you tell him to do something he does not turn around and say 'Why?' Such training will teach habits of obedience and self-reliance and the doing of one's duty."

The United States mine-planting cruiser Baltimore came here for the celebration. The marines participated in a parade and later visited Col. Roosevelt at his home.

PARTY LEADERS PLAN COALITION AGAINST SWANGER

Will Try to Get Lamm or Morris Out of Race and Unite on Picked Man.

Conferences of Republican leaders on the Governorship are being held in St. Louis today with a view of forming a coalition of the supporters of Judge Henry Lamm of Sedalia, and Charles D. Morris of St. Joseph, to prevent the nomination of John E. Swanger of Sedalia, who, the leaders fear, would be defeated in the November election if he should win the August primary.

A canvass of the entire States, made by Republican leaders, indicates to them that Swanger is likely to be nominated if both Judge Lamm and Morris remain in the race. The reports show that the dry counties are almost solidly for Swanger, while the cities are almost equally strong for Lamm and Morris. The result of the canvass has been analized by the leaders and they believe that if either Lamm or Morris should withdraw the one remaining in the race could defeat Swanger.

The Republican leaders, from the information they have gathered from all parts of the State, are convinced that Fred D. Gardner of St. Louis, is going to win the Democratic nomination. They fear that Gardner would carry St. Louis over Swanger, and thus wipe out the big Republican majority in this city. Without a big majority in St. Louis in November the Republican leaders see little hope of electing their Governor and their State ticket.

Dickey Running Strong.

The canvass made by the Republican leaders convinces them that Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, is going to be nominated by an overwhelming majority over Nathan Frank and Thomas J. Akins of St. Louis. The reports show that Dickey will carry practically every county in the State, and that from 75 to 95 per cent of the Republican votes will be cast for him in the different counties.

Morris in Conference.

Morris is here today in conference with the party leaders, but Judge Lamm is represented by the St. Louis managers of his campaign. He is beginning today a tour of Southwest Missouri.

The Swanger supporters were invited into the conferences. Their attitude was that the people wanted Swanger, and that the efforts of the leaders to prevent his nomination would not succeed.

Why Spend your Money,——"with a Spade"?

The greatest Need of this Nation is THRIFT

THRIFT does not mean Penuriousness! Its first principle consists in getting FULL VALUE for each Dollar of Income expended.

Getting less is not complimentary to the intelligence of even a Millionaire,

Being liberal and generous, in affairs where it is proper and deliberate to be so, differs widely from being thriftless, thoughtless and careless in buying things, on a business basis.

A habit of "Jumping at Conclusions," instead of Thinking out these Conclusions, costs many a man a lifetime of Un-success.

Too many Americans indolently act upon the shallow theory that an article "must be" WORTH more, merely because it Costs more.

They are thus taxed a heavy price, all through life, for such an indolent habit of Thought.

They work hard, industriously and intelligently, to acquire money.

Then (for their personal needs) they "Spend it with a Spade."

They "spread" it without a fraction of that shrewdness and thoroughness with which they acquired it.

Is this complimentary to the judgment of even the Wealthiest?

Do people become Wealthy who acquire the careless HABIT of "Spending Money," instead of intelligent, thoughtful BUYING with it?

Get your Money's Worth!

ABOUT 12,000,000 Tires for Motor-Cars and Trucks were made and sold in U. S. A. last year (1915).

That quantity was divided up among some 200 Makers, Makes or Brands of Tires.

But, of this total production a full FOURTH was made by a single Rubber Concern.

That Concern is the B. F. Goodrich Company.

Its Motor Car, and Truck, Tire Output and Sales, during its latest fiscal year, were FIFTY PER CENT (50%) LARGER than the next-largest Output and Sale, by any other Rubber or Tire Concern in America.

Behind this huge production is a 47-year Experience in Rubber-Working—an all-sufficient Capital,—and a raw-material Purchasing-Power indicated by its manufacture and sale of over 130,000,000 pounds of Rubber Products in 1915.

Back of all that again, will be found an unquestioned RECORD for Business-Integrity, for Good-Faith, Square-Dealing—and a long-confirmed POLICY of giving the maximum Value feasible, to Consumers and Dealers.

MONEY, therefore, cannot make BETTER Fabric Tires,—at ANY price,—than this Goodrich Experience, Purchasing-Power, Capital, and Intention are now producing.

And,—the Goodrich Fair-List Prices quoted herewith, on Fabric Tires, could never be so LOW (for such HIGH quality) without the enormous VOLUME, which so reduces Cost as to make these lowest prices possible.

When you pay MORE than the Goodrich Fair-List prices here quoted for ANY Fabric Tire you are NOT getting better Tires.

You are simply "Jumping at Conclusions"—"Spending your Money with a Spade," and cultivating that careless Habit of buying which is the Enemy of Thrift.

Test out Goodrich Tires against their Fair-List PRICES,—and see!

PUBLIC HEARING TONIGHT ON NEW BALLOT SYSTEM

Representative Voting and Proportional Representation Are to Be Considered.

Tonight's public hearing at the city hall on the proposed new system of city elections will not be confined to board bill No. 294, providing for nominations by petition and for preferential voting, but also will relate to board bill No. 351, submitting to the voters a charter amendment to provide for proportional representation, according to announcement today by Taylor B. Wyrick, chairman of the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

The proportional representation proposition is of national interest, say officers of the Municipal Ballot Conference, because St. Louis will be the first large city in the United States to vote directly on that principle.

Section 3 of the proposed charter amendment provides that "nominations for members of the Board of Aldermen at all elections where more than three members of such board are to be elected shall be by lists, each of which lists shall be supported by petition, as in the case of other elective offices," and that "a list may nominate any number of names for the Board of Aldermen not to exceed the number of such members to be elected at the election to be held therefor."

Omission of all party marks from the ballot is provided for. Section 4 says that "each list shall be shown separately upon the ballot and such list shall be designated only by a number."

The proportional or minority representation idea is explained in section 5 as follows:

"Election to the Board of Aldermen shall be in accordance with the principles of proportional representation, so that of the total number of aldermen to be elected at any election each list appearing upon the ballot shall be entitled to have declared elected as many such aldermen as are required to give the list a number of aldermen proportionate to the total number of votes cast for it.

"When the number of aldermen so determined shall contain a fraction of a whole number, only the whole number shall be taken as the number of seats assigned to such list, and the total number of unassigned seats represented by the fractions for all lists shall be assigned to the several lists in such manner as may be provided by ordinance.

"The persons to be declared elected from each list shall be those persons nominated on that list who receive individually the highest number of votes."

ACHES AND PAINS

Don't neglect a pain anywhere, but find out what causes it and conquer the cause. A pain in the kidney region may put you on your back tomorrow. Don't blame the weather for swollen feet; it may be an advanced warning of Bright's disease. A pain in the stomach may be the first symptom of appendicitis. A creak in a joint may be the forerunner of rheumatism. Chronic headaches more than likely warn you of serious stomach trouble. The best way is to keep in good condition day in and day out, by regularly taking GOLD MEDAL HARLEM OIL Capsules. Sold by reliable druggists. Money refunded if they do not help you. Beware of substitutes. The only pure imported Haarlem Oil Capsules are the GOLD MEDAL.—ADVERTISEMENT.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT DEDICATION OF LABOR TEMPLE

Plea in Washington Address for Calm Counsel Is Cheered Repeatedly.

INTERRUPTION BY WOMAN

Announced to Be Beginning of New Form of Campaign for Suffrage Amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—President Wilson, at the dedication yesterday of the new home of the American Federation of Labor, told a large audience that the greatest barrier to industrial peace had been the difficulty of insuring candid and dispassionate conference and that "getting our fighting blood up" was "the long way and not the short way" of securing rights.

Mr. Wilson's plea for calm counsel brought repeated applause from the crowd, which apparently interpreted it as having an indirect bearing on the Mexican crisis. The President, however, did not refer to Mexico or any other foreign country by name.

"The way we generally strive for rights," he said, "is by getting our fighting blood up, and I venture to say that it is the long way and not the short. If you come at me with your fists doubled, I think I can promise you that mine will doubel as fast as yours; but if you come at me and say, 'Let us sit down and take counsel together and, if we differ with one another, understand why it is that we differ, just what points are at issue,' we presently will find that we are not so far apart after all; that the points on which we differ are few and the points on which we agree are many, and that if we only have the patience and the candor and the desire to get together, we will get together."

Refers to Clayton Act.

Nothing that the President said aroused such enthusiasm as his praise of that section of the Clayton act declaring that labor is not commodity.

"I am sorry," he said, "that there were any Judges in the United States who had to be told that. It is so obvious that it seems to me the section of the Clayton act was a return to the primer of human liberty; but if Judges have to have the primer opened before them, I am willing to open it."

Referring to the display of American flags carried by the union workers in a parade which he had reviewed as part of the exercises, the President declared the flag always should recall America's duty in serving the world.

"America," he said, "did not come into existence to make one more great nation in the family of nations, to show its strength, and to exercise mastery. America opened her doors to everbody who wanted to be free and to have the same opportunity that everbody else had to make the most of his faculties and his opportunities, and America will retain its greatness only so long as it retains and seeks to realize those ideals. No man ought to suffer injustice in America. No man ought in America to fail to see the deep dictate of humanity."

Mrs. Wilson, Vice President Marshall and several members of the Cabinet attended the exercises. Secretary Wilson of the Labor Department was master of ceremonies. President Gompers of the Federation, who introduced President Wilson, started a prolonged demonstration by making an appeal for support of the President "in peace or war."

Interrupted by Suffragist.

The President's address was interrupted twice by a woman suffragist who tried to heckle him regarding his opposition to a national suffrage amendment. She was silenced by secret service men and finally taken away by the police. The Congressional Union announced last night that the effort was only the first step in a new campaign to impress Democratic leaders with the advisability of passing the amendment at this session of Congress.

The President scarcely had begun to speak when the first interruption came. The questioner, Miss Mabel Vernon of Nevada, a member of the Woman's party, was standing only a few feet from him and when he declared that in his position he was not permitted to think of any one class of persons, she shouted:

"If you truly desire to serve all classes, why do you block the national suffrage amendment now before Congress? Four million women in this country"—

White House secret service men made their way to Miss Vernon and silenced her. She tried unsuccessfully to induce them to eject her from the crowd. When she again tried to interrupt the President, a few minutes later, city police led her away from the speakers' stand. She was not arrested.

The President apparently was undisturbed by the incident. He paused upon the first question and turned to look at Miss Vernon, who stood with Miss Alice Paul and Miss Maud Younger, members of the Congressional Union, but he paid no heed to the second attempt at interruption.

How You Can Make Hairs Quickly Disappear
(Helps to Beauty)
Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove the hairs, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface, and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone.—ADV.

IS DANDRUFF KILLING YOUR HAIR?

Mr. Hotaling Was Troubled 19 Years and Was Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with dandruff for the last nineteen years. My scalp was so bad that it used to bleed and itch and burn most all the time. My hair fell out so I had to have it clipped all over, and the top of my head was all scales. It annoyed me nights so I lost sleep, and my coat collar used to be covered so with dandruff that I used to be ashamed.

"I tried everything that I heard of but nothing seemed to do me any good until I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and from the first I found relief. I used three large sized cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment before I was healed." (Signed) Earl J. Hotaling, Elba, Mich., Jan. 22, 1916.

Cuticura Soap, to cleanse, purify and beautify, Cuticura Ointment to soften, soothe and heal, have been most successful in the severest forms of skin and scalp troubles, but greater still in preserving clear skins, and preventing little skin troubles becoming serious.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Free Bridge and the Terminal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The purpose of building the municipal free bridge was to free the trade and commerce of the city of St. Louis from the slavery in which it is held by the Terminal Association, and not to put the bridge at the mercy and under the control of the terminal monopoly, and so strengthen it. The proposed ordinances numbered 32, 33 and 34, now pending before the Board of Aldermen, if passed as now drawn, would constitute a binding contract between the city of St. Louis and the Terminal monopoly. It would give the Terminal contractual and practical control over the free bridge, and such a contract is irrepealable. To be sure, any railroad not a member of the Terminal Association, would have a legal right to use the free bridge, but each of the 15 railroads composing the terminal body could, under pretended orders to do business, keep their engines and cars at successive periods upon any or all of their main tracks, and so blockade it, and thus effectually keep out any independent railroad.

When the Rock Island Railroad tried to get into the heart of St. Louis without making any arbitrary charge, or becoming a member of the Terminal monopoly, the Wabash maintained a telegraph station and kept an engine upon its tracks at Forsythe Junction, pretending to await orders for business, thus blocking the Rock Island trains, although that road had an agreement with the Wabash by which it had a right to use the Wabash tracks into the heart of the city. The result of this was to force the Rock Island to join the Terminal monopoly, and so help maintain the Terminal arbitrary charges.

The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States says nothing about the arbitrary, and makes no decision about railroad rates. The substance of the decision is simply to compel the Terminal to allow any railroad to use the Eads and Merchants' Bridges and the rest of the Terminal tracks, but does not prevent the Terminal from making any railroad using its tracks help it in maintaining the arbitrary charges, just as the Rock Island was forced to do. The Terminal would be delighted to have every railroad in the United States use its tracks and bridges on condition of maintaining the arbitrary charges, as the greater number of the railroads composing the Terminal Association, the greater will be its strangle hold upon the trade and commerce of St. Louis.

All those who have worked for the past 10 years for the free bridge wish to see every railroad, both steam and electric, in the United States use the bridge, but do so on condition that they make no arbitrary charge therefor.

The proposed ordinance No. 125, giving the Terminal and all other railroads licenses or permits to use the free bridge, should be passed instead of the proposed ordinances Nos. 32, 33 and 34. These permits, of course, are revocable, and the condition of their being granted should be that any railroad receiving them must not make any arbitrary charge.

CORNELIUS H. FAUNTLEROY.

Rejected Volunteers.

Let me say, be not discouraged, boys! Good habits, the right exercise and pure air will fit you for war or for work. Cheer up. OLD MAN.

A Woman's Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Thomas Rogers, chairman of the Efficiency Board is quoted this morning as saying, "If the board was dominated by its chairman you may depend upon it that all who aspire to the position would have an opportunity to demonstrate their fitness."

Mr. Rogers' actual practice is directly opposed to his preaching. He has in the past, arbitrarily, and without a scintilla of reason, on the mere ground of sex, denied the privilege of taking competitive examinations to those eminently qualified, obviously a subterfuge. His action is a matter of record. If all citizens of this Commonwealth thought as Mr. Rogers and Judge Jones, all women, however industrious and well qualified to earn a living, would be deprived of the opportunity.

CAROLINE McCARTY.

Young American Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Dr. Bartholdt is unnecessarily alarmed. The American youth is not a Tory. His enlistment in the British army has come of a love of adventure—perhaps, too, from a little sympathy for that "under dog in the fight," poor little Belgium. Sympathy may even go against right and reason. Naturally, furthermore, the American youth goes into an army that speaks his own language. And "boys will be boys." M. D. S.

NO SHAM PEACE.

The Carranza note is conciliatory in tone, but unsatisfactory in content.

It insists upon a dual responsibility for the present conflict between the United States and the de facto Government. It would be more accurate to say that it offers two differing standpoints—the American and the Mexican. From the American standpoint the cause of conflict is described as the insecurity of the border. From the Mexican standpoint it is the story of American troops on Mexican territory which the note insists is a trespass on Mexican sovereignty as well as the immediate cause of conflicts.

There is no admission of validity in the American contention. The two claims are merely stated as grounds for mediation, which is suggested.

The note strikes one as a rather clumsy way of shifting responsibility and of putting the two Governments on a par for the purpose of mediation or of further negotiation.

It is difficult to see how the United States Government can admit this parity in the light of our own attitude, clearly defined in previous communications. Certainly the Carranza statement cannot be reconciled with the facts.

Our troops were sent into Mexico when the continued slaughter of Americans in Mexico and murderous raids on American territory proved that the Mexican de facto Government was either unwilling or unable to protect the lives of Americans in Mexico and our border from Mexican raiders. We were compelled to protect our own border.

The cause of immediate conflicts is the refusal of Carranza to co-operate in putting down banditry and anarchy on the border with his proclamations and orders inciting Mexican troops and civilians to hostility against American troops. He admits that the conflict at Carrizal was caused by his own hostile instructions.

It is difficult to see what mediation will accomplish. It is not a theory or contention, but a condition with which we are dealing. We ask for peace, order and safety on our border. That cannot be obtained by a decision of mediators, but only by the action of the de facto Government in putting down disorder and protecting the border. It can only be done by co-operation.

The great majority of the American people, we believe, stand with the President in desiring to keep peace, if possible. But they will not be deceived by or satisfied with a peace which does not settle border conditions and the menace of Mexican anarchy. A sham peace would lead to worse conditions and costlier war.

Before the Mexican problem is settled we must at least be assured of conditions which make for permanent peace.

ROLLA WINS OVER THE CURATORS.

All that the friends of the State School of Mines at Rolla have contended for is vouchsafed by the decision of the Supreme Court.

To be a competent mining engineer in this advanced day one must have something of the preparation of the civil engineer, the mechanical engineer, the electrical engineer. Courses in these branches being necessary to the fulfillment of the distinctive purposes of the school, no reason exists why degrees for special proficiency in their requirements should not be granted.

That the Curators of the State University are a law unto themselves in many matters has a basis of truth, but the principle might be given too wide an extension. It would, indeed, be strange if the Legislature representing the people and taxpayers were estopped even from directing that proper recognition may be accorded for worthy students at Rolla.

Freed from narrow and unreasonable restrictions, the School of Mines is given expanded opportunities for continuing its work of exceptional scientific usefulness in the past.

WISCONSIN'S FEEBLE-MINDED.

A law providing that the feeble-minded in State institutions may be surgically sterilized has been put in force in Wisconsin, and the fact has aroused little comment. It is claimed for it that the law is humane, as, of course, it hurts the feelings of the strong-minded to witness the sufferings of the feeble-minded. And the feeble-minded are supposed to be suffering when they act in a silly manner. We are not sure of it, however.

What we may be reasonably sure of is that laws of this kind are and always will be enforced against members of families who have no means of protecting themselves financially. It is always the destitute poor who are selected for experimentation by the scientific reformers. State and charity hospitals are splendid fields for scientic investigation by cold-blooded savants.

We have some feeble-minded children here in St. Louis. And the present intention is to make every effort to strengthen their minds by special educational methods. How many of Wisconsin's feeble-minded might have been saved by such methods?

A BIG MOOSER FOR WILSON.

Francis J. Heney was as typical a leader as the Progressive party had. He was—he is—a recalcitrant, a rebel, a Rough Rider stamp of man. Fearless, a fighter, outspoken for his convictions, he wielded powerful influence for Roosevelt, with whom he bolted in 1912 rather than yield to what he believed the dishonesty of the methods which nominated Mr. Taft. Heney's campaigning for Roosevelt is memorable. It was picturesque and heroic.

Mr. Heney declines to be absorbed with the Progressives who meekly follow their crestfallen Colonel back into the grand old peace party whose sole vitalizing principle is "anything to beat Wilson." Mr. Heney believes that what was true about the Republican party in 1912 is true today. He remembers the resolutions the Bull Moose passed in 1912; the speeches he made; the condemnation of the Republican party by the nation, ratifying the judgments of the Progressives.

Mr. Heney is out-and-out for Wilson, and will work for his election. As an example of an erstwhile Progressive with really progressive principles that do not yield to cheap politics, he commands admiration. As a friend in the Wilson camp he is a notable acquisition, and as a foe to the old order of machine Republicanism he will be remembered with deep and lasting respect.

THE MILITIA MOBILIZATION.

The call to the national guard of all the states in the number of at least 100,000 men for mobilization on the Mexican border was issued on the eighteenth. The eleventh day from that date found tens of thousands of these troops far out on the long journey with others following as fast as trains could be provided. Ten more days will undoubtedly see the whole force subject to the call, and in greater number than 100,000 camped along the border and ready for any work that may be needed.

This mobilization has met in certain quarters a chorus of fault-finding and more or less ridicule.

As a matter of fact, this country has never before seen a citizen soldiery mobilization carried out with such celerity on so great a scale of numbers and on so vast a scale of distances. The time taken by the regular German army, in August, 1914, to get into Belgium from distances at most of a very few hundred miles, over roads long prepared and equipped for just such a movement and with every other measure of preparation long before perfected was practically as long as the time taken to marshal this American citizens' army in reasonably full equipment and camp most of it 2100 miles away from home.

No one has been more doubtful of the state militia as the nation's second line of defense than the Post-Dispatch. But we can get from this demonstration so far as it has gone more reassurance than discouragement. A much greater measure of preparedness has already been proved than was to have been expected. The mobilization on a national scale will in itself be of immense value for still greater efficiency in searching out any weaknesses of organization and equipment and transportation that remain to be remedied. By bringing the units of all these states into a common field of action, standards for mutual emulation will be set up exceedingly stimulating and improving to the whole body.

Whatever develops regarding Mexico, this mobilization should not stop short of the finished plan. As a start in practically applying the army reorganization bill it will prove invaluable.

DRESS AND DECENCY IN ALTON.

Mayor Beall of Alton has ordered the police to arrest all women who appear on the streets in silhouette or diaphanous gowns—notwithstanding the weather. We are just wondering which is the more immoral, the excessive modesty of the Mayor or the excessive modishness of the transparent drapery. Before he called attention to it, the diaphanous dress enjoyed a less scandalous reputation, to be sure. Be that as it may, we believe the arrest of the wearers is unconstitutional, because there is no law to compel women to wear perfectly opaque garments—such as felt skirts, for example, in July or any other time; whereas there is a clause forbidding cruel and unusual punishments.

In point of decency, it seems to us that a bifurcated Mayor in undisguised pants has nothing on a draped but silhouetted citizenness with an equal number of ambulatory members—shall we say limbs? To discover indecency in things that are not essentially indecent seems to us quite as heinous as to dress in the extreme mode. However, the discussion of what women shall wear is and has always been futile. Men and laws have never successfully regulated women's apparel. Fashions have always been superior to attempts at control, and it has been only primitive stupidity which made the attempts.

RUSSIA'S CONDITION.

"Judging from inquiries from nearly every part of the world," says the Petrograd Novoe Vremya, "the present condition of Russia is not in any sense known. A few lines therefore to satisfy our inquirers:"

At the opening of the war, Russia mobilized 400,000 soldiers, and ordered them to the assistance of Servia. Two days later Germany, after her ultimatum of twenty-four hours, began deploying troops all along our frontier. Half of the troops ordered south had therefore to be recalled to defend our line against the Germans. Two hundred thousand men could neither hold the Austrian million, nor the German million, much less go to effective aid on behalf of little Servia. One million men were therefore called to arms; and without even two weeks' drilling they were rushed to the two fronts. They were no soldiers, mere human cannon fodder, and the event proved the prediction of thinking men. Meanwhile another million men were called to arms; and drilled an entire year. They are soldiers, and they are at the front now. Six hundred thousand more are drilling; and another half million has been called to arms this spring. The remnants of the original army is less than one hundred thousand effectives; of the first recruits not more than six hundred thousand are left: but our total effective today is one million seven hundred thousand, with another drilled million to back them.

Economically Russia hardly feels the war; many provinces have barely heard of its existence. True, we have an increase of twenty billion dollars (forty billion rubles) in our national debt; but the pressure has not sunk into the general public. Only one item has brought restrictions—the vodka (whisky). Russia today neither makes, sells or uses the article. As a consequence, according to the statement this spring to the Douma by M. Barck, Russian Minister of Finance, the savings institutions throughout the country, the mother house in Petrograd and ten thousand branches in the provinces, have wonderfully improved in deposits.

In 1914, January, the total deposits amounted to only 1,874,000 rubles ($935,000); in 1915, January, they reached the sum of 55,916,000 rubles ($27,900,000); and in 1916, January, the enormous total was reached of 119,208,000 rubles ($59,100,000), a total increase in the savings since the war began of three and one-half billion rubles.

The paper states that Russia has awakened from her sleep of false security and has 6,000,000 men eager to vindicate her honor

MR. ANTWINE ON THE CAMPAIGN.

"THE campaign may be said to be on," Mr. Antwine said. "Mr. Hughes has spoken volubly, and we may expect to hear from him regularly from this time on. Usually a silent person, once set to talking, talks more than a talkative person. It will probably prove that way with the Justice.

"I can't say that I am impressed with what he is saying. I believe I was more impressed by his silence. He has not said anything one can recall except that his Americanism is undiluted. He speaks of unity, but whether we are to infer that he means the unity in which he and Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft are to get together to beat Wilson, or that in which we are all to get behind him to beat Wilson, we do not know. The idea seems to be to beat Wilson. No reason is assigned. We ought to beat him. Isn't that nonsense for a serious time like this? It is, and we shall have a lot of it."

Dear Sir: I cannot help expressing my admiration for your splendid 4th of July oration in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

The humor in Just a Minute is always based on sound sense and good taste, conditions which your model oration fulfills to perfection.

BO'S CORRESPONDENCE.

Well—The heroes are off to the border.

Corporal Jack Lehman says "War Is Hell." He just gave a small boy on a station platform 50c for three bottles of pop, exit train, small boy and change.

There's no bugle
In the morning,
For we are on the train,
And the wind storms
Cannot rouse us
In a blanket drenched with rain.
We can sleep all that we want to—
Which is quite a novel way
For the members of the Battery,
To start another day.
And the seats have springs,
The beds have sheets,
The lights are always lit—
And we ought to reach
Laredo feeling fit.

We've been filled with juice for typhoid
And been vaccinated too—
And if they found an adenoid
They'd drill for that ill too—
So they sterilize the soldier,
It's a way that can't be beat—
But can't they find an antidote
For the border's gruelling heat?

Battery A,
Here's your hay—
Horses and guns.
On your way,
Farewell cheers
To your cannoneers,
And abstinence
From St. Louis beers.
Battery A,
Here's your hay—
Section right,
And on your way!

GENERAL ORDER.

When you hit the Alkali—
Quit the alcohol,
Forget the festive julep
And the cooling Scotch highball
Or the sun will get your number—
That's all.
En Route. BO.

Just a minute has been out camping a couple of days. He was not sure that he had been fair to the mosquitoes this summer.

A reader of Just a Minute says: "We'll never get those fish you have suggested for the aquarium in Forest Park. Life isn't that good. Only imagination achieves it."

Seeing the fireworks last night reminded us of the wag's observation that the Romans must have been a mighty gay people, judging by the candles they went to bed with.

Everybody seems to have attended the celebration at Forest Park last night except the United Railway Company's cars.

It is significant that Carranza became more reasonable as Col. Roosevelt's loose rib began tightening up.

Now will Mexico behave!

LIFE IN THE WILDS.

G. I. X. K. E.—Two young men fearing mosquitoes, chiggers, "sarpints," might spend two years outdoor life profitably. They have plenty of time to develop brain and brawn, taking a few right books with them. (See the roads for wild localities.) Popular chanics says of campers:

The personal outfit should include only most useful articles; each should be vided with a dunnage bag of canvas bedding and clothing, and a small "ditty" bag for keeping together and other personal belongings which everyone finds necessary for everyday fort. A mending kit, containing a few of silk, linen and twist; a length of cotton; buttons; a few needles and both safety and the common kinds, not be overlooked. The veteran stows away a bit of wire; a length of twine; a few nails and tacks; rivets for emergency use, and it is surprising the novice how handy these several ends are found while in camp. A tin box will form a convenient place for them and will take up little room in dunnage bag. A medicine case and a said outfit are well worth packing. MISCELLANEOUS.

OLD TIMER.—Emery wheels are made by consolidating the powdered mineral with an agglutinizing medium like shellac or silicate of soda or vulcanized India-rubber. (Try department of applied science, Public Library.)

X. Y. Z.—The home-loving couple attending church on Sundays, and not caring for more or less expensive amusements, would be foolish to pay any attention to criticisms from pleasure lovers. The criticism is not worthy meddling, it is idiotic. You are simply on a plane above your critics.

JONES.—The tall, long-leaved pine is found in the South, forming extensive forests in sandy soil. Its wood is known as Georgia, hard, or yellow pine and furnishes most of the "naval stores" —resin, tar, turpentine, etc. (The Peter deposits in the caves of Kentucky, Virginia and Indiana are of commercial value.)

T. C. M.—The General Board of the Navy has reported to Congress that the attainment of the place of second the world's naval strength will cost the United States $291,461,297 in initial cost. The plan proposes one more vessel of each class than Germany has at present. These statements were published in the spring: The United States have risen from second to fourth place in the list of power among the nations of the world. 2. Nine superdreadnoughts are now under construction or authorized. 3. Ninety per cent of the vessels now in service are unfit for service. 4. The vital weaknesses of the navy are shortage of officers, men and lack of long-range target practice. 5. Submarines are not of the right type and lack trained engineers. 6. The guns are the best in the world. 7. Lack of aeroplanes leaves the navy without eyes. 8. In dreadnoughts and battle cruisers the figures stand: Great Britain 50, Germany 29, France 14, United States 12. (Admiral Fletcher warned the Navy Department: "It takes approximately four years to educate and train an officer, and no amount of legislation can produce officers when trouble is imminent.") Before the war the naval Powers ranked as follows: Great Britain, Germany, United States, France, Japan, Russia, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Turkey, Spain, Brazil, Argentine Republic, Chile, Netherlands, Greece, Portugal, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Mexico, Siam.

D. T.—We doubt that St. Paul's is the largest in the world. The organ in the great new cathedral in Liverpool is said to be the largest. It has 9,997 pipes. The great St. Louis World's Fair organ (now owned by Wanamaker) had 10,059 pipes. As to St. Paul's Cathedral, in 1083 Bishop Maurice, with the consent of William the Conqueror, undertook the erection of a new cathedral. The building was not pressed forward with vigor and in 1135 much of it was damaged by fire. The tower was completed in 1221. An early English choir followed shortly after and was enlarged after 1255, when Bishop Gravesend brought great energy to bear upon the repair and elaboration of the building. At the close of the century the cathedral was regarded as finished, but a new choir was built early in the fourteenth century. Much of the Norman work, particularly in the nave, had been left untouched by the early English builders (who in other parts merely encased it). And the cathedral was a magnificent monument of these styles and of the early decorated. Perpendicular additions were not extensive and the cathedral remained with little alteration until 1561, when lightning struck the spire and fired the church. The spire was not rebuilt. In the times of James I. the fabric had so far decayed that Inigo Jones was prevailed upon to make a personal examination of it. Jones was entrusted with the work of restoration. In accordance with the architectural tendencies of his time he added a classical portico to the west front and made similar alterations to the transepts. Again, however, in 1666, the sad state of the fabric necessitated extensive repair, and Dr. (afterward Sir) Christopher Wren furnished a design, including a central dome. All these works were completed in August of 1697, but in September the great fire of London almost destroyed the building, rendered what was left unsafe and beyond restoration. The formal plans for the rebuilding of the cathedral were made in 1668 and the foundation stone was laid in 1675. The first service was held in it in 1697 and the last stone was set in place in 1710.

The Idol's Eye

Story of a murder that was revealed after an investigation into the head of an effigy of Buddha.

By Frank Filson.

"YES, old Col. Hartley had quarreled with his son, but I am not satisfied that the will was his. He was not the sort of man to leave everything to his Indian butler.

"Ram Gus had been with him for years. The signature has been verified by all who knew the Colonel."

"I shall run down to Haverham, with your permission, and make an investigation."

The lawyer shrugged his shoulders. James Pyne was an old Indian acquaintance of the late Colonel, and his friend's shocking death had depressed him greatly. The circumstances were as follows:

Col. Hartley, living in retirement near Haverham, with his Indian butler, Ram Gus, had quarreled with his only son, Arthur, over the girl whom Arthur had subsequently married. He had cut him out of his will. The will seemed to be genuine. Even Pyne, after examining the signature, was compelled to accept the general opinion to this effect.

But he believed the Colonel had made another will, that Ram Gus had murdered him and stolen it. The Colonel had dropped dead in front of his great bronze Buddha, 11 feet high, which occupied one end of his library. The idol was supposed to bring sudden death to anyone who owned it. The Colonel had taken it from its shrine in Amritsar.

Pyne, arriving at the house, found Ram Gus in full possession. He explained briefly that he had come to investigate the circumstances of his master's death. Ram Gus, a surly fellow in a turban and frock coat, sneered maliciously.

"The doctors' certificate was apoplexy," he said. "Am I under suspicion?"

"Yes," answered Pyne frankly.

The butler shrugged his shoulders. "Stay as long as you like," he said.

The investigation meant everything to Arthur Hartley and his wife, a pretty, brown-eyed girl, who, at Pyne's request, had taken up their abode in the village. Pyne spent days investigating, with the following result:

The Buddha was set back against the wall. There was no mechanism by which a person, concealed there, could discharge a bullet. And the examining physicians had satisfied themselves that there were no marks of violence.

The room next the library, used as a pantry by the butler, had been recently repapered and painted, and at the time of the Colonel's death had been empty, Ram Gus having moved his pantry to a little unused chamber across the hall.

The Renovated Pantry.

DR. GUMMIDGE, who with his son, had certified to the cause of death, informed Pyne that it was undoubtedly cerebral apoplexy, the temporal artery having broken, leaving a small round stain at the front of the ear, due to suffused blood.

The net result was nothing. And yet Pyne became more convinced that Col. Hartley had been murdered.

He stood alone in the library, looking into the shining, inscrutable eyes of the idol, which seemed to whisper hints of something diabolical. He entered the renovated pantry and sounded the wall. There was only lath and plaster. The painter stated that he had only papered and painted; the wall had been absolutely uninjured.

Pyne was almost in despair when a chance remark of a townsman gave him a clew. Three years before a party of Veddahs, the aborigines of Ceylon, had been on show in London, and the authorities had brought them for a day to the Colonel's house, to have him talk with them about certain matters of the contract which the interpreter could not understand. Col. Hartley had been a linguistic expert, and the Veddahs, who were now back in Ceylon, were delighted with the result of their journey.

Verifying Suspicions.

PYNE felt the clew—but he did not see it.

"Ram Gus, I am satisfied that you had nothing to do with the Colonel's death," he said to the butler. And Ram Gus, who had watched him with uneasiness which he could hardly conceal, suddenly thawed out.

"It is hard to be suspected of having caused the death of a beloved master," he said.

"Very sad, and very unfortunate," answered Pyne. "Well, I shall leave tomorrow, after pronouncing my opinion in the presence of Mr. Arthur Hartley. You will not object to my bringing him here?"

"Not at all," answered Ram Gus, grinning all over his black face.

That night, when Ram Gus was sleeping, Pyne crept downstairs and verified certain suspicions which had become already a moral certainty. The next morning, when Arthur Hartley arrived, with his wife, the three confronted the butler.

"I have discovered the murderer," said Pyne suddenly, and noted the start the butler gave. "Come this way."

He led them into the unused pantry. He had stripped the section of paper from the wall adjacent to the Buddha in the next room. There was a tiny circular hole in the plaster, too small to have been noticed by the paper hanger. Inserting a blade of grass, Pyne pushed it clear to the end.

Ram Gus, who had remained in consternation at the door, gave a sickly smile and sat down on a kitchen chair which was in the room.

Pyne led the others into the library. He went up to the Buddha and pressed the beady red eyes. They fell backward upon their tiny hinges, revealing—the end of the grass blade at the back of the right eye.

"Here is where Col. Hartley was standing when he met his death," said Pyne, taking up his position on the floor. He was killed through the right eye. He was observed from the next room through the left eye, by means of a slender tube."

The Veddah Clew.

"BUT how was he killed?" questioned Arthur Hartley, thunderstruck.

"By an overdose of curare," answered Pyne. "It is a drug well known to the Veddahs of Ceylon, and discharged with fatal effect by means of a blowpipe. Here," he ended, taking a little reedy tube from his pocket, "is the blowpipe, which I discovered inside the head of the Buddha. The butler had left it there—and but for the Veddah clew I should never have suspected its existence. The blowpipe discharges a dart impregnated with poison, so tiny that it passes into the flesh and is immediately hidden like a thorn. The end of the barb can be broken off. That accounts for the suffusion of blood on the temple."

He led them back into the pantry. Ram Gus was still in his chair, in the same position that he had adopted when he sat down.

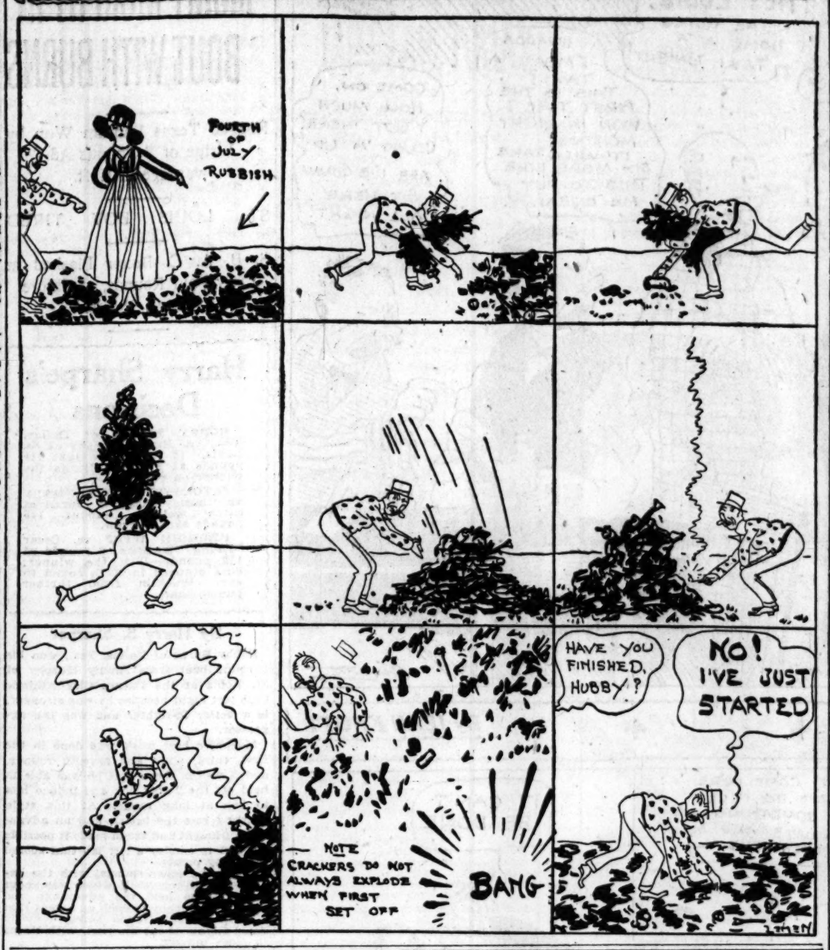

"I am authorized to arrest you, Ram Gus," said Pyne, touching the butler on the shoulder.

But Ram Gus made no answer, only his head drooped, and he suddenly toppled to the floor. Then they saw, upon his forearm, a tiny, circular mark as of suffused blood. And Ram Gus' forearm was already almost cold.

Spotless Tommie

Sandman story of the white kitten whose mother wouldn't let him play with the other cats.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

MRS. TABBY had one kitten; he was all white, without a spot of color on his sleek coat. Mrs Tabby was very proud of Tommie, and called him Spotless, to distinguish him from the other cats in the neighborhood.

The other cats called him Spotless Tommie, and told him he never had any fun because he had to look out all the time not to soil his white fur.

And Spotless watched the other cats run over the fences and jump in the scrap barrels and walk through mud puddles, and Spotless wanted to do the same.

One morning his mother made his coat look very shiny and neat, and put a blue ribbon around his neck, which Spotless always disliked to wear, and then told him to sit close to a hole in the wall, where she knew there were two fat mice living.

"I wish my coat was black," thought Spotless. "Mother never lets me have a bit of fun. Tommie Black jumps into the coal bin and his mother does not know it, and Tommy Gray can roll over and over right in the dust and his mother does not notice his coat being dusty. Oh, dear, it is very hard to have a white coat!

"And how I do hate this ribbon! None of the other cats wear ribbons. I wish mother would not make me wear it."

BUT Spotless sat down beside the hole and watched as his mother told him to do, but the mice that lived in the hole must have heard Mrs. Tabby telling her son about them, for they did not come out.

"Oh, ho! look at Spotless Tommie," called out Tommie Black. "He is all dressed up."

"I'm not dressed up," replied Spotless. "I don't have to wear this ribbon if I don't want to."

"Oh! yes you do," said Tommie Gray.

"If you don't have to wear it, take it off and come with us," said Tommie Black, "we are going over in the lot where there is a lot of things to play with and lots of dirt. Come on, Spotless Tommie; you don't dare, do you?"

"Yes, I do," said Spotless, tugging at the end of the ribbon, and off it came. Spotless let it stay where it fell on the ground and ran after Tommie Black and Tommie Gray. He was bound he would have one day of fun if he never had another.

Over fences he followed the other cats and over heaps of ashes and into the lot. Spotless rolled over on the ground as the other Tommies did, and his white coat looked like a gray one in a short time.

They played with an old tin can, and when it rolled down the hill Spotless ran after it, and before he noticed where he was going he landed in a puddle of water.

"Wait until your mother sees you; she won't know you," said Tommie Black, and Spotless hoped she would not.

"Now we must go and get our dinner," said Tommie Gray. "I know where there is a nice barrel that always has good things in it."

OFF they all three ran, Spotless feeling that at last he was a real Tommy cat and no longer could At first he did not eat the scraps, for Spotless had always had a dish of milk and his mother had never let him go to the scrap barrels, but after a while he jumped into the barrel and joined the others.

"I guess I'll take a nap in the sun," said Tommie Black, so Spotless and Tommie Gray followed him and curled up beside a pile of boards near the road.

They were sleeping soundly when Mrs. Tabby, returning from town, came along.

"What dirty-looking kittens," she said to herself. "I am glad Spotless does not play with such cats."

Just then Spotless opened his eyes and, forgetting how dirty he was jumped up and ran to his mother.

"Oh, mother, mother, what did you bring me from town?" he asked. Mrs. Tabby gave one scream and dropped all her bundles and over she went on the ground.

Spotless was frightened and Tommie Black and Tommie Gray ran for their mothers.

But Mrs. Tabby didn't put a ribbon on Spotless again. She did scrub him and told him he would have to keep his coat clean. "But I suppose you will never be happy until you run with the other cats," she said, "and they don't wear ribbons."

Household Hints.

TO whiten clothes, add a tablespoon of turpentine to each boiler of clothes.

To insure fast colors in washing, add one tablespoonful of turpentine to a pail of water; dip the article in the solution and dry before washing.

Cut the yokes and sleeves from old nightgowns and make bodies into protectors for your suits and dresses by sewing the tops together, leaving a small hole for the coat hanger hook. Cotton dress skirts could be used in the same way.

A good furniture polish is made by mixing together equal parts of turpentine, linseed oil and vinegar. Shake well and apply with a soft cloth, using another dry one for the final polish.

Before putting a roast in the ice chest cover with paraffin paper. This keeps the meat moist and juicy.

Women and Temperance

THE first international woman's temperance congress was opened in Philadelphia 40 years ago, inaugurating a movement which has since gained world-wide influence. The temperance crusade of the fair sex had its origin in Hillsboro, O., in 1873, and the following year the National Woman's Christian Temperance union was organized in Cleveland.

The infant society almost immediately began preparations for a world congress of the fair foes of rum to be held at the Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876, and the congress attracted delegates from many countries.

In 1883 the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union was launched by Frances E. Willard, and it immediately gained a large following in England, and has since spread to more than 50 countries and colonies.

As a result of the agitation of this and similar societies the temperance movement has made great progress, and the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U. has become a familiar emblem in all parts of the world.

Another way to clean and polish furniture is to put three tablespoonfuls of linseed oil and one of turpentine into a quart of hot water. Apply with a soft cloth and polish with a dry one.

The First Detachable Linen Collar

AN American woman invented the modern starched linen collar. She was the wife of a blacksmith in Troy, N. Y., and she invented the separate collar to save work, as she noted that the shirt remained clean much longer than the collar.

The Rev. Ebenezer Brown saw one of those separate collars around the neck of the blacksmith, and in 1829 he engaged in the business of marketing separate collars and cuffs. The industry thus established in Troy has ever since remained central there, and 90 per cent of all collars made in North America come from Troy.

Joe Stecher's Legs, Not His "Scissors," Went at a Fast Clip Yesterday

CARDS ARE CLOSER TO FIRST DIVISION THAN THE BROWNS

Huggins' Misfits Are 2½ Games, Jones' Men Eight, Back of Fourth Place.

HERZOG'S TEAM IS DONE

Double Defeat by St. Louis Cripples Indicates That "Buck" Has Given up Hope.

By W. J. O'Connor.

By winning both ends of a double-header from the ambitionless Reds yesterday, the Cardinals moved into a position within 2½ games of first division. The Browns, of whom we hear so much, are eight games below the bottom berth of the upper tier, but that doesn't alter the fact that Fielder Jones has a finer lot of material to work with than Miller Huggins. However, Hug is kidding his men along.

At times during the mad matinee, yesterday, the Cardinals presented all sorts of fronts. Jack Miller gravitated around the diamond, closing the day as a third sacker. Snyder and Gonzales alternated between first base and the catcher's box, and both operated pertly, wherever placed.

And there were other serio-comic developments. A pop-bottle shower, for instance. The inmates of the left-field bleachers, who have made the Fourth of July an occasion for some sort of outburst for years, shed all the "dead" pop bottles they could lay hands on in the second game. Time was called while the high-salaried athletes, headed by Huggins, chucked the bottles into the neutral zone.

Fans Give Pop Bottle Shower.

This bottle shower was a demonstration against Umpire Harrison, who showed the ill-effects of the heat. He missed several plays, proving that he is human, and was so generally bad that Mr. Rigler, who looks like the dean of the N. L. umpires since Bill Klem began to slip, took a few plays away from him.

However, there were other unusual events. In the first game Buck Herzog, who has slowed down to a whisper, complained of a pain in his bean, after smiting a big-league single to center with one out. Herzie sat down on the first-base bag and held his head for several minutes, delaying the game so long that Huggins offered to make almost any concession to have the show proceed.

Finally an unusual arrangement was effected. Herzog went to the bench to bathe his head in ice water while "Greasy" Neale, the best base runner on the Cincinnati club, took his place. It mattered little, as Meadows grabbed the next batter.

Meadows at His Best.

Meadows won this game, being presented with a five-run lead in the first two frames, while more markers were picked up ever so often until the Cardinal total reached the munificent number of eight. The Reds could get only three.

In the second game it was Red Ames against Pete Schneider and this pair, chiefly because of some weird defensive work by Corhan and Betzel, who has nothing left by consummate conceit, dragged into 11 innings. Rogers Hornsby was called to bat for Huggins in the last portion of the eleventh and Rogers hit to the left-field fence for what might have been a home run. Only a single was needed and that's all that Rogers will be credited with. However, his drive was easily a triple if not a circuit swipe.

Series Ends Today.

Cincinnati will play its final game of this series here today. So far the Cardinals have won 11 and lost six to the Reds. Hug's team has a draw with Chicago, 7—7, but has lost the series to all other clubs so far. The Reds will not reappear here until Sept. 8, when they open a three-game series. The Cards have one double-header in Rhineland on Aug. 12.

Giants Crawfishing Rapidly.

Not even the collapse of the Browns in the American League race compares with the retrogression of the Giants, who have set a record for dope-spilling in this year's edition of the pop-eyed pastime. Off to a miserable start, when they lost 13 out of 15, the Giants right-about faced on their first Western trip and pinched off 17 successive box scores. Now they are tin-canning into second division again, and a double defeat yesterday by Brooklyn finds McGraw in sixth place today, only two games ahead of the Cards.

Rousch Mit Chief Wilson.

Something will pop soon in New York. Schuyler Britton has his ear to the ground and hopes to receive another bid for Harry Sallee. If Skip can persuade the recalcitrant hurler to join McGraw, the Cards may profit by acquiring a pitcher and an outfielder. Rousch would look pretty good in the Cardinal line-up, while Chief Wilson would be a boon to St. Paul.

Percy Haughton and his million-dollar baseball plant in Boston are getting all the bad financial breaks of the season. It rained yesterday and spoiled a double-header for Percy. It rained also on Bunker Hill Day, ruining another big holiday date. And it rained on four successive Saturdays during the Braves' recent stay at home. That's upward of $75,000 that must be regarded as a net loss.

To the Bomb-Proof, Dope!

However, the Braves are coming with a rush. They are now in second place and, with Alexander out of the way, have a royal good chance of knocking off the Phils in today's double-header. The Phils, though, stick to it nicely, never dashing violently in either direction. They are the most consistent club in either league, and the time has come to respect Patricio Moran, who opens here Friday.

Intoxicated with the joy of living on the top floor of the National League apartment house, Mike Mowrey, who was considered a resident of Hasbeenville as long as two years ago, tried to steal second yesterday with the bases filled. Steve Evans tried that once for Roger Bresnahan, and when the Duke rushed out on the diamond to take most of Steve's unincumbered salary, the Cleveland comedian met him more than half-way with this explanation:

"Why, Rogs, I'd of stolen that base if Koney wasn't there. Did you notice the lead I had."

Steve escaped a fine.

Lewis Wrestles 5 Hours to Draw With J. Stecher

Strangler Ignores Nebraskan's Invitation to Take Any Hold He Desired.

OMAHA, Neb., July 5.—Joe Stecher of Nebraska and Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Kentucky wrestled five hours to a draw in their match here yesterday. The match started at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and when neither had gained a fall at 9, Referee Ed Smith called it a draw. A year ago Stecher and Lewis went two hours without either gaining a fall.

In the match here yesterday Lewis seemed to be eluding Stecher and his famous scissors hold all the way through. There were few times during the five hours that they came to grips.

Once during the progress of the match the Nebraska wonder lay down on the mat and offered Lewis any hold he desired. But the Strangler merely turned his back and ignored the invitation.

Foolish Questions.

I MET a man the other day,
As I was on my homeward way,
And thought with all my troubles I was through;
He held me with his skinny hand
And, with a smile serene and bland,
He asked me: "Is it hot enough for you?"

I clinched with him, right then and there;
I mauled him like a grizzly bear,
And punched him in the nose a time or two.
The copper haled me into court
And said: "I'm sorry for you, sport,
The Judge will make it hot enough for you."

"Discharged!" the learned Justice cried,
"I find this man was justified
In beating this gazabo black and blue;
For, when the heat was so intense,
He showed a lack of common sense
In asking: 'Is it hot enough for you?'"

Take warning by this little tale.
They'll never put a man in jail
For giving human pests their proper due;
So, any time you chance to meet
A guy who's crazy with the heat,
Don't ask him: "Is it hot enough for you?"

Jack Dillon knocked out Fireman Flynn in and on the Fourth.

Unlike the Browns and Indians, the Tigers have no respect for old age. They knocked Fred Beebe off the slab yesterday.

In a desperate effort to keep up with Ty Cobb, Benny Kauff was put out of the game yesterday for throwing his bat up in the air after being called out on strikes.

In all other respect Benny is running a poor second to the Georgia Peach.

"Pep" Hornsby batted for Huggins in the second game with the winning run on third. Owing to a sprained ankle, "Pep" didn't want to take any chances, so he belted it to the fence.

The left-field bleachers put on a pop-bottle shower by way of letting off their excess steam. The demonstration was in honor of Umpire Harrison, who received the tribute in the spirit in which it was given.

The Cards celebrated the Fourth by moving out of the cellar. It is generally considered a pretty good move on the part of the Cards.

Honk! Honk!

The New York Giants are pulling a "come-back." They are coming back so fast that the Cards are in danger of being run over.

In the other games, Belleville whitewashed the Ben Millers, 1—0; Alton trounced the Southerns, 7—3, and the Wabadas handed the Brockmeyers a 6—4 drubbing.

ONE HIT OFF STEINMEYER

Steinmeyer, pitching for the Zions in the Walther League, held Bethany to one hit and was the winner, 2—0. Steinman, his rival, allowed two safeties. In the other clashes Mount Calvary won from Emmaus, 7—4, while Bethlehem nosed out Collinsville, 4—3.

Wolff Wins Over Manion, 3 and 2 and Takes Title

Last Year's Municipal Champion Is Beaten by Great Play of Opponent in P. M.

Playing great golf in the afternoon round, after being 1 down in the first 18, Clarence L. Wolff yesterday defeated James Manion, 3 up and 2 to play, for the municipal championship. Wolff evened the count on the second hole in the afternoon round and then displayed a brand of golf which had not been seen on municipal links before and started his drive that downed Manion, last year's champion, and threw him the title.

For the morning round Manion went out in 41 and came back in 39, a total of 80 strokes. Against this Wolff had cards of 41 and 43, a total of 84. For the 16 holes needed in the afternoon, Wolff turned in a card of 68 and Manion one of 73. Finals in the other classes also were decided. The results in the other classes follow:

Class A—Schands defeated Behring, 1 up.

Class B—Rodway defeated Garrison, 1 up.

Championship consolations—R. E. White defeated Art Pfarrer, 4—3.

Class A consolations—Roth defeated Van Clooster, 13 up and 11.

Class B consolations—Spuehler and Beall were all even on the first 18, but Beall was called away, and the last round will be played next Sunday.

G. L. Green, with a net score of 71, took first prize in the medal play handicap event, one of the tournaments staged at Bellerive yesterday. C. W. Condie, Lewis Perry and L. T. Block, 72, tied for second. A. Whittemore carried off the flag tourney, planting his flag at the 21st hole. J. A. Lewis, Paul Bakewell Jr. and V. L. Price, 84, tied for honors in the blind bogey event.

The main event at Midland Valley, the flag tourney, was won by E. L. Dickey, with Dr. C. M. Westerman second. Dickey also won first honors in the ball sweepstakes. H. S. Shaver and George E. Mix tied for the prize in the men's putting contest, while the woman's prize went to Mrs. F. E. Norwin.

D. G. Braham, with a score of 157 for the 36 holes, won the Patriotic Handicap tourney at Westwood. Lewis Rosen, with 168, turned in the low gross score of the day.

B. L. Crain won the flag event at Algonquin, with J. S. Layhie the runner-up. In the ball sweepstakes W. M. Smith and J. Norton, with a net score of 66, tied for leading honors. L. F. Welch, 67, was next in line.

LOW WEIGHT HURT JIMMY MURPHY IN BOUT WITH BURNS

Rugged Texas Bantam Won by Virtue of 7 Pounds Advantage in Heft.

ST. LOUIS BOY TIRED

S. B. A. C. Boxer Flashed in Only Four Rounds, at Future City's Shows.

Harry Sharpe's Decisions

BOBBY BURNS of Dallas, Tex., vs. Jimmy Murphy of St. Louis, 12 rounds, weight 116 pounds at 3 p. m.—Burns the winner on points.

"CYCLONE" TOMMY DALY vs. Charley Stapp, 8 rounds at catch weights (about 145 pounds each)—draw.

GEORGIE WITT vs. Oscar "Young" Wacklin, 6 rounds at 116 pounds—Witt the winner; bout stopped in sixth round to save Wacklin from further punishment.

By Harry S. Sharpe.

Bobby Burns of Dallas, Tex., won his 12-round bout from Jimmy Murphy of St. Louis at the Future City Athletic Club last night because he was stronger, is a better in-fighter and was the aggressor.

Murphy's best work was done in the first, third, sixth and seventh rounds, and it was in these that he was able to hold off the Texas boy and induce him to box at long range. At this style Murphy was the better, and an advantage of height and reach made it possible for him to employ a left jab that scored for many points.

In all the other rounds, with the exception of the eleventh, which was about even, Burns held the advantage and outfought Murphy to such an extent that the St. Louisan found safety only in rapid flights about the ring, with Burns in close pursuit.

When Murphy was cornered or elected to stand for an exchange, Burns crowded in close and drove hard punches to the body and hooked rights and lefts to the head, inflicting punishment that tired Murphy and took the strength from his punches.

Whenever the boys stood shoulder to shoulder exchanging punches to the body or trying to hook or uppercut one to the head, Murphy was nearly always the one to give ground or lay on to escape punishment. It was Murphy, too, who did most of the clinching or covering up. Burns was better able to stand Murphy's punches than the latter was able to stand those of Burns.

Murphy Flashes in Seventh.

Murphy's very best round was the seventh, and this he took cleverly by some brilliant boxing and very fast work. His left hand worked like a piston rod in this round and found its way to Burns' face and head so fast and often that Burns was momentarily bewildered. The Texas boy tried to check Murphy by cornering him, but the St. Louis boxer was lightning fast on his feet and stepped in, out and around so fast that Burns lost him and had to take a good peppering.

However, after Murphy's flash in that seventh round, he tired so fast that it was noticeable in every round thereafter. He tried to avoid Burns as best he could, but the latter was going now better than at any time since the bout had started, and he either cornered or caught up with Murphy and made him stand and exchange. In these infighting encounters Murphy was badly worsted.

It was a cleverly boxed bout throughout, and neither was at any time near a knockout, though some hard punches were exchanged. As the bout wore on, and Murphy began to tire, Burns seemed to improve, and at the end was much the fresher of the two.

At weighing-in time—yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock—Burns was a trifle under the required 116 pounds, but I am told that Murphy's actual weight at that hour was 109. This difference in weight was unquestionably a great factor in the result of the bout, because Burns was strong at his weight, while Murphy was weak at his.

Murphy's weight is a puzzle to his friends, and is something he cannot account for himself. At times he can enter the ring weighing about 114 pounds, and at such times he is quite strong. Then he will run down as low as 105 pounds, and at such times, of course, he is weak.

A very small crowd was on hand to witness the show. It was a very orderly crowd, however, and none of the several women who were present had any cause to be offended by anything that was said or done.

WHY MEN CHEW TOBACCO

"OLD KENTUCKY" IDEAL CHEW

Since tobacco was first introduced to civilization, nobody has ever discovered so supremely satisfactory a way to get all the flavor and enjoyment out of it as chewing it. And no other form of chew can give you the hearty, wholesome, juicy flavor that you get from a delicious high-grade plug tobacco like Old Kentucky.

The secret of the greatest chewing satisfaction lies in the selection of your chew. Among plug tobaccos the brand that gets the most enthusiastic endorsement is undoubtedly Old Kentucky. The reason for this is not hard to find.

Old Kentucky is made exclusively of ripe Kentucky Burley—the most richly flavored chewing tobacco that grows. Still more, only the very choicest of all the Burley leaf is used for Old Kentucky.

This choice leaf is selected with the most painstaking care, is stemmed by hand, is thoroughly washed free of all foreign matter and is pressed into plugs so slowly that not a drop of juice or an atom of flavor escapes. Moreover, Old Kentucky is made under the most rigid, cleanly and sanitary conditions.

The result is a sweet, mellow, luscious, satisfying chew that cannot be obtained in any other tobacco than Old Kentucky.

KELLY HAS LANDED 21 EVENTS THIS SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—What is declared to be a new record for rowing in this country was established by John B. Kelly of the Vesper Club, Philadelphia, yesterday, when he brought the number of victories in which he has participated in this city up to 22. Edward Hedley, also of the Vesper Club, held the former record for winning races in one season with 20.

Kelly yesterday won the single sculls and was a member of the crews winning the senior double sculls and the senior eight-oared events in the People's Regatta. He had previously sat in 19 winning crews in sanctioned regattas this season.

CHICAGO OARSMEN WIN POINT TROPHY AT PEORIA RACES

One Windy City Squad Scores Almost as Many Points as Five St. Louis Clubs.

ACCIDENTS MAR CONTESTS

Shells Are Smashed and Fouls Committed in Senior Day Regatta Events.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., July 5.—Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago holds the honors for the best performance in the Central States Amateur Rowing Association regatta, far outclassing the field. The Windy City boys captured [illegible] points and won the point trophy.

The Centrals and the Mound Citys of St. Louis, with 7 points each, were their closest rivals. The Westerns and the North Ends of St. Louis each got six points and the St. Louis R. C. five. The Illinois Valley Yacht and Canoe Club of Peoria scored seven points and the South Sides of Quincy gathered three.

Senior Day, the second of the regatta, was marked again by accidents. A foul and a collision put four shells out of the running in the Senior four-oared event. The Central craft was smashed and the Lincoln Parks boat was badly damaged. The acidents led to a hot discussion among club representatives.

Seven crews were entered in the race. Scarcely had they gotten under way when the St. Louis crew fouled the Mound Citys No. 2. The latter quit but St. Louis went on. Then St. Louis got too close to Mound Citys No. 1 and the latter gave up, but the husky St. Louis boys kept going. The engine of the patrol boat had balked and the gun of the Umpire recalling the crews could not be heard.

More Shells Smashed.

When the remaining boats were making the turn, the Centrals apparently got out of their water and hit the Lincoln Parks. Both were out of it, with the Centrals' stern being nearly torn off. The leg of one of the Chicago men was cut by the nose of the Centrals' shell.

Illinois Valley yacht club No. 1 finished, St. Louis came in second and Ivy Club, No. 2, was third. Protest was made by the Mound Citys and the Judge disqualified St. Louis, ordering the race to be run over after the eight-oared was rowed. The Peoria crews then made protest and refused to row again.

Only the Lincoln Parks, who had repaired their shell, and Mound Citys No. 1 rowed the race over, and Chicago won it.

The senior barge was the prettiest race of the day, with six boats finishing. The Westerns got across the line first and the St. Louis crew was right at their stern. The North Ends, the Mound Citys, the Centrals and the Badens finished in the order named.

Lincoln Parks, with Anderson and [illegible], took first and second in the singles; [illegible] of the Westerns was third and Schreiber of the same club quit.

Bieser and Benrrup of the Mound Citys made Hartman and Schumacher of the Centrals quit in the pair-oared.

The two Ivy crews finished second and third to St. Louis in the open four-oared for one half mile, but the first Peoria crew pushed the visitors at the finish.

Schreiber and Vogler of the Westerns beat Geilen and Olson of Chicago by 3 seconds in the doubles. The North Sides of Quincy and the second Lincoln Park crew quit.

Although Chicago won the eight-oared, the Centrals pushed them, being nosed out by two yards. Westerns and Mound Citys gave up, the latter damaging their shell near the finish line.

LAVAN TOSSES OFF HAMILTON'S GAME; BROWNS GO EAST

Jones' Men Should Have Won Every Game of Chicago Series, Concluded Yesterday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 5.—The Browns departed for Washington last night, having won a game here while dropping two. Both defeats were donations. Yesterday the Browns won the morning game, 3–1, and lost the p. m. setto, 4–4.

The final combat was a weird exhibition in which Johnny Lavan and Hank Severeid did their best to assist the Sox in their ambition to gain their way to the top of the American League.

Lavan made two wild heaves in the first inning which had a lot to do with the four runs Chicago made. They got these tallies on two infield hits and one which went outside the diamond.

The game should have ended in nine innings instead of 13. E. Collins started the ninth with a single and Joe Jackson let loose a triple to right center. Lavan made a perfect relay to the plate, but Severeid tagged out General Joe and then dropped the ball. This tied the score and the game ambled along till the thirteenth, when hits by Weaver and Ed Collins and a steal by Weaver sent the Browns to defeat.

Weaver Donates a Run.

But to even matters, this same Weaver, who made the run which beat the Browns in the afternoon, gave them the tally which won the morning game. Jimmie Austin opened the ninth with a triple when the count was one all. Miller lined to Weaver, and Austin should have been doubled off third easily, but Weaver threw too soon and the ball rolled to the stands and Austin made the winning tally. So much for that.

Del Pratt, Jim Austin and Bert Shotton blossomed out as demon wielders of the mace in the afternoon session, which was one of the most peculiar combats of the season. Lefty Williams fanned eight Brownies in the first three innings, but Pratt and Shotton inserted three-baggers.

In the fifth Shotton got his second triple and it produced a run. Later he added a single and a base on balls and reached first on an error, a fair day's work.

Pratt got his second triple off Ed Cicotte and whanged the ball to the left-field fence when the bases were peopled with Shotton, Austin and Miller, all of whom had singled.

Austin also contributed a three-base blow in the ninth with Severeid and Shotton on route, and the game appeared to be won, as this put the Browns two to the merry. However, Collins and Jackson got busy, knotted the count, and the affair passed away in the 13th.

Earl Hamilton, who attempted a bimonthly come-back would have escaped with no runs off his delivery in six innings but for the two wild chucks by Lavan. He appeared to have some stuff, and gave the slugging Sox only four hits. He was more effective than either Groom or Plank and worked steadily in spite of the abominable support.

LOOKING THEM OVER WITH OLD MAN DOPE

By John Edward Wray

It's Time to "Can" Adolph.

AD WOLGAST crowded the last straw on the back of the long-suffering camel, yesterday at Denver, when he fouled Lightweight Champion Freddie Welsh in the eleventh round of their scheduled 15-round contest.

Wolgast had to repeat the dose before the referee would admit that this unsportsmanlike pest was either utterly heedless of the rules or was deliberately fighting low.

According to news dispatches Wolgast hit Welsh in the third round and the champion claimed foul, but it was not allowed. Physicians who examined the title-holder could not determine whether he had been hit low, and Welsh was forced to continue, after 20 minutes' rest, apparently in order that Wolgast might repeat the dose to prove that the first blow was really foul.

Too much is enough, men. This bird ought to be looked after. He's a dangerous character in the ring and ought NEVER to be permitted to take part in another contest. Some day he may permanently injure a REAL man, and there'll be no redress for the sufferer.

* * *

How Adolph Has Changed.

FOR this is not Wolgast's first offense. Nor yet his second nor his third. Prior to the year 1912 Wolgast had never committed a foul. He was a rattling good little miller and he fought for seven years with only one foul figuring in his record, and that was committed AGAINST, not BY him.

Then followed his operation for appendicitis and a change. Wolgast opposed Willie Ritchie in a title match at Frisco, in 1912. After an uphill battle for 15 rounds, Wolgast lost the fight and his title by FOULING his opponent.

Since that time Wolgast has officially fouled Bobby Waugh, Frankie Russell, Stewart, Donnelly and Freddy Welsh. He has also "got by" with some rough stuff which the referees preferred to let go as knockouts, rather than call "foul," just as the Denver official did the first blow yesterday.

The conclusion, therefore, is that Wolgast has become a consistent foul battler and is, therefore, a positive menace to the well being of every opponent he is permitted to face.

Promoters should put the bars up against this bird if ever they expect to do the right thing by those who pay as they enter.

* * *

They're Still at It.

IT seems that for all the purity bath the reformers gave the racing game, it has come back with the same old sickness, that ailed it before the big stick was wielded on it.

The system of control has yet to be discovered that can rid racing of chicanery and double-dealing of various descriptions.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, which is a friend to all sports, last Sunday printed the following concerning the racing game at Latonia:

"The Latonia meeting has settled down and there has been less rough work pulled the last week than in the previous eight days. It looks as though the pullers of rough stuff got it all out of their systems in the first week. The racing has been clean and above reproach in nearly all instances. There have been times when it looked as though certain riders and horses might be receiving a little assistance from others. One case was the day when Hot Toddy won. Two other horses were out setting the pace with Hot Toddy laying in behind them. When the two leaders hit the stretch they went so wide that it was just gravy for Goose to come through on the rail and win with Hot Toddy. It might have been an accident, and one of the horses might have carried the other out, but it didn't look that way."

From which it appears that the races at Latonia during last week were only a degress less "smelly" than formerly.

* * *

RACING association should not be blamed for such conditions. Most jockey clubs honestly try to stamp out trickiness and cheating. But as long as the possibility of winning a few dollars exists, there will always be found horsemen with minute consciences eager to try and put something over.

The history of all sport will show that betting and cheating are blood relatives and not mere connections.

TRIPLE A TENNIS CHAMPION FACES JAP STAR, TODAY

Bowman Meets Kumagae in Central States Singles Championship Match.

CANNON OPPOSES JONES

Kansas City and St. Louis' Leading Lights Also Scheduled to Meet.

With the third round of the Central States singles and doubles tourneys and the sectional doubles championships scheduled today, and the dross removed from the competition by the earlier rounds, the tennis matches at Triple A courts now appear more attractive and, in all probability the contests will be keener.

Of the 16 players still in the singles, but five are St. Louisans. Each of this quintet is paired today with some well-known alien.

In the doubles tourney, the local outlook is a bit brighter. The Central States competition retains three St. Louis teams of the six which remain in the struggle, while of the 10 pairs still undefeated in the sectional doubles matches, five of these are from the city.

Today's matches should be sparkling. A program that will totally eclipse anything in tournament competition that has been offered St. Louisans in years will be started at 11 o'clock this morning, when Jack Cannon of Kansas City, former Central States champion and still a power in racquet circles of this section, meets Drummond Jones, the real leader of local courts. This is a match of final quality.

Japs Meet Triple A Champions.

Another promising singles contest brings together Walter Bowman, the new Triple A title holder, and Kumagae, the Far East champion and the more brilliant of the Japanese invaders. Bowman should serve to give the brown man the first real competition offered him. Mikami, the latter's partner, will meet Newell of Kansas City and he also should have quite a struggle. Albert Lindauer of Chicago antagonizes Dix Teachenor of Kansas City, all of which should be resultant of some splendid play. The winner of the match is expected to finish well up in the tourney.

The feature doubles play of the day brackets the Oriental pair with Cannon and Lindauer, a team that many followers look upon as the stiffest competition that will be offered the Nipponese contenders. It is not probable that the Japs will play their match in the sectional doubles.

The most attractive sectional doubles play will see Jones and Hoerr, the local hopes, in competition with Teachenor and Newell. The winners of this pair meet Darrough and Monnett.

Japs Have Great Record.

The more that one sees of Kumagae and Mikami in action, the more one is impressed with their superiority over the remainder of the players in the tournament. This is especially true in the case of Kumagae. The two Asiatics have, since the tournament started, competed in three doubles and four singles matches, winning each with ease and taking 84 games and losing 13. Of these Van Reppert took seven from Mikami.

Certainly, it is a fact, that in the other meets, the Japs have met players of lesser ability, but still one may see the decisiveness and the worth of their game outstanding. With their quick wrist shots, splendid accuracy at volleying, their ability to cover the entire court like a blanket, their jerky, twisting service, and their keen knowledge of the game, they form ideal exponents of the game.

As to the other visitors, Teachenor and Cannon are playing exceptionally well. Lindauer, Wester, Newell, Darrough and Monnett did not shine yesterday, for some reason or other. Teachenor appeared here two years ago in the Missouri Valley Conference tourney and did not impress. This week, however, he is playing a smash-up game and looks like a real contender.

Oklahomans Fall Down.

Darrough and Monnett fail to live up to the impression that they left here last year, when they were both semi-finalists in the singles and runners-up in the Central States doubles tourney. They were defeated in the sectional doubles matches yesterday by Josties and Drewes, two local boys. The match was a beauty and the feature of the day, the scores going 7–5, 6–3, 6–4.

Previous to this match, Josties and Drewes had eliminated Uhls and Wester in the Central States doubles, in straight sets. This was the feat of the day. The two boys are just out of Yeatman High School, and gained a large bit of their racquet knowledge on the O'Fallon Park courts, where they won the championship last year. Josties especially looks like a comer, and is prepped by the A. A. A. hangers-on to develop into a star. He is a splendid back-court player, with a large variety of strokes. Coupled with his clever net-playing partner, they form an efficient doubles pair.

Ward Shocks "Talent."

The other surprise of the day was the defeat in straight sets of Taylor Ward at the hands of Uhls of Kansas City. Uhls looked far from good when he and his partner were being defeated by Josties and Drewes in the morning. Still Taylor came back in the afternoon and his hard game was an absolute failure. That is Ward's entire offense and naturally spelled his defeat.

In the morning Jones and Hoerr dispelled all hopes of the followers of the newly-formed Ward-Crunden team by winning in straight sets. The new team is too new for tournament play and the partnership failed to work smoothly. The present Central State champs worked Crunden to a finish, and it was only on rare occasions that Ward got a chance at the ball. They feared his "kill."

A large gathering, probably the largest that has made up a Triple A gallery except at a finals match, watched the play through the morning and afternoon. The tourney is making a big hit, as it well should.

"Fireman" Flynn Knocked out by the Giant Killer

DEWEY, Ok., July 5.—Ernest Cutler Price, better known as Jack Dillon, made short shrift of settling with his old side-kick, Jim Flynn, in their scheduled 15-round battle yesterday morning.

Dillon hooked his right to the 35-year-old iron man's jaw in the fourth round and it was curtains for one of the toughest and gamest fighters known to the ring.

The first two rounds were even, and Flynn led in the third. After which Dillon cut loose and floored Flynn twice before the world came to an end for the Colorado scrapper, in the fourth.

Eyeglasses Save Sight of Cards' President When Cannon Cracker Explodes

President Schuyler Pearson Britton of the Cardinals is recovering today from the effects of powder burns and laceration of the lips and chin, the result of a premature explosion of a "giant" firecracker at his home, 4315 Lindell boulevard, last night. A heavy pair of glasses which Britton wore at the time of the accident was all that saved his sight, according to Dr. M. E. Haase, who treated the patient.

Dr. Haase stated today that there was nothing serious in Mr. Britton's condition, although it would probably be a week before the Cardinal president would return to his work. His teeth were shaken loose and he is not allowed to talk.

MOTOR BOATS TO RACE OVER A LONGER COURSE

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 5.—The second day's racing of the Mid-Continent regatta under the auspices of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association, will be over a two-and-one-half-mile course. The course used yesterday was found to be too small.

Interest is centered in the Webb trophy race, which was postponed from yesterday. Miss St. Paul, Miss Minneapolis and the Barnacle, three of the fastest boats entered in the regatta, will start in this event.

EVERS BACKS OUT OF BOUT WITH KABAKOFF

Eddie Evers of Rock Island, Ill., who was matched to box Harry Kabakoff of St. Louis at the Motordrome tomorrow night, has called off the bout.

Matt Sofka, matchmaker of the South Broadway Athletic Club, received a telegram from George Lass, manager of Evers, last night, announcing that the Rock Island boxer had hurt his ankle while training yesterday afternoon, and would be unable to come.

Sofka appeared at the Futurs City A. C. last night and tried to secure Bobby Burns, who had just defeated Jimmy Murphy there, to substitute for Evers, but Tommy Sullivan had secured Burns to meet Johnny Ritchie at his club on next Tuesday night and would not release him for a match with Kabakoff tomorrow night.

Failing to secure Burns, Sofka last night wired Jimmy Dunne, manager of Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane, to send on Luke Ginty, a boxer handled by Dunne. Ginty, who is training in Cleveland, has been anxious for a chance to show in St. Louis.

PALM BEACH

Palm Beach cloth is the logical outcome of a summer demand for a porous fabric neither wool nor worsted, yet durable, pleasing to the eye, and shape-retaining.

Palm Beach, although unlike any lightweight cloth made, takes the place of all of them, adding a satisfying coolness and economy that sane men are quick to see.

Palm Beach cloth washes beautifully and the natural colors are practically free from hurtful dyes and chemicals.

BE SURE YOUR SUIT IS WELL MADE. YOU'LL FIND GOOD WORKMANSHIP A SHREWD INVESTMENT.

And do remember that Palm Beach is a trade-marked name. Refuse imitations. The label is your proof of the Genuiness

PREPAREDNESS

Here's proof of the value of being prepared

We are for National preparedness.

We have proved the value to any organization, whether it be government or manufacturer, of being prepared for the unexpected.

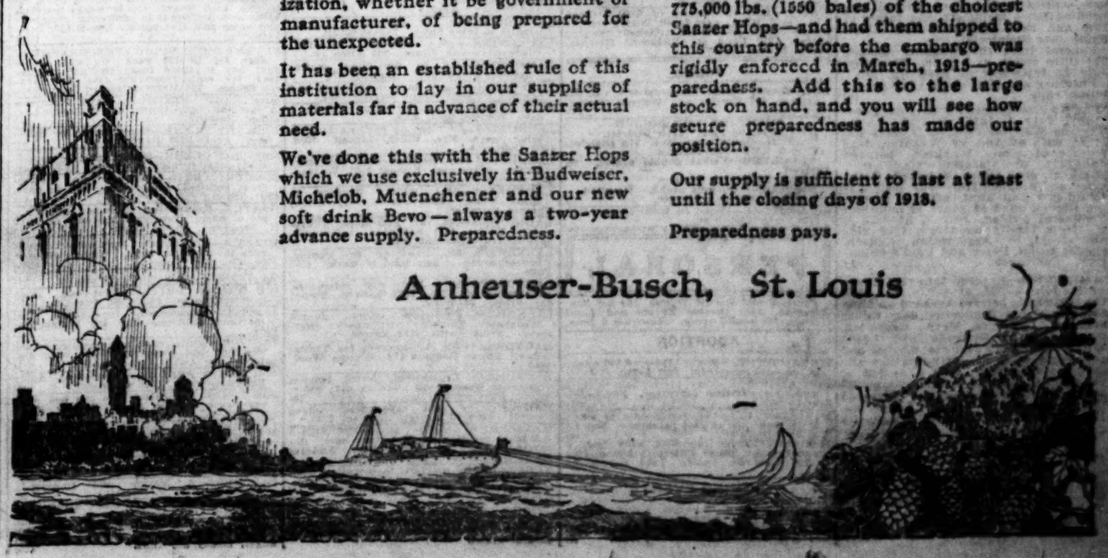

It has been an established rule of this institution to lay in our supplies of materials far in advance of their actual need.

We've done this with the Saazer Hops which we use exclusively in Budweiser, Michelob, Muenchener and our new soft drink Bevo—always a two-year advance supply. Preparedness.

During the summer of 1914, one of our officials, while on his annual hop buying trip abroad selected and purchased 775,000 lbs. (1550 bales) of the choicest Saazer Hops—and had them shipped to this country before the embargo was rigidly enforced in March, 1915—preparedness. Add this to the large stock on hand, and you will see how secure preparedness has made our position.

Preparedness pays.

$4000 NEEDED TO PROVIDE MILK AND ICE FOR BABIES

Children Turn From Celebrating Fourth to Working for Post-Dispatch Fund.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$764.04
Leonora B. Halsted	2.00
Margaret Willis, Robert Levy and Martha McBride	2.25
Elma F. Yawitz	2.10
Total	$770.39

Independence Day being now in the past, the children and parents of St. Louis will have little to divert their attention from the vital cause of fostering the welfare of the infants in the homes of those to whom fortune is not now generous. A great deal of thought prior to the arrival of the national holiday was, of course, given to planning its celebration along lines promising most individual pleasure, and with the little folks especially this had first consideration for the time being.

But the cause of the babies has not been absent from the hearts and minds of either the children or their parents during this period of preparation for the Fourth. In every quarter of the city there has been planned individual and group endeavor by which to roll up a fund adequate to furnish pure milk and free ice to those who find these essential to the health and the lives of their babies, and the Post-Dispatch anticipates with absolute confidence several weeks of activity in that direction that will create for the current season a record of achievement that has not been reached hitherto. There are more babies who must be provided with milk and ice and more money must be raised if the need is to be met. The period between the present and the reopening of the public schools is only about eight weeks, and to accumulate the required fund of at least $5000 calls for the collection of more than $4000, with hundreds of children engaged in the work, reinforced by parents and other grown people, that will prove an easy undertaking.

In recent acknowledgment of the splendid work done by Miss E. Goldsmith of 5788 Westminster place and Carleton Logan of Kingsbury place, the Post-Dispatch inadvertently failed to include the names of Misses Billie and Marcelle S'Renco and Ruth Singer of 5722 Westminster, Myron Goldman and Frank Craft of 5728 Westminster, and Garnett Palfrey of Kingsbury place. These children devoted two evenings to selling candy to patrons of a West End airdome, through which $4 were added to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund.

Talented Misses Eager to Aid In Saving the Lives of Babies

FLORENCE M. FITZGIBBON.

SELMA PACHTER.

The Post-Dispatch today tenders the services of two gifted and charming little misses to any individual or organization planning benefit entertainment for the destitute and heat-imperiled infants. These are Florence M. Fitzgibbon, 9 years old, of 4752 Leduc street, and Selma Pachter, 8 years old, of 1390 Arlington avenue. The former is one of the cleverest fancy dancers in St. Louis, and the latter a talented and well-trained reader. Both have for two or three years past given vast pleasure to audiences by their accomplishments in the lines named, and they feel that there is greatest happiness for themselves in doing whatever may be practicable for the well-being of the poor babies. They look upon it also as a responsibility, and are ready cheerfully to meet it.

There was considerable activity in the local stock market today, and on most of the securities transferred prices reflected firmness. Odd-lot sales indicated that small investors are taking considerable stock off the market. This is construed as a bullish factor by brokerage traders.

United Railways preferred stock showed a firm tone on trades at $15.75 and $16, and closed wanted at $15.75, with offers at $16. The common stock was easy on a trade at $4. The 4s were unchanged at $60.75 bid.

Union Sand and Material stock was active and steady around $75.25, and General Roofing preferred was unchanged at $102. Granite-Bimetallic Mining stock was easy on active trades at 61¼ cents. Bonds reflected a fair investment demand at firm quotations.

Local Money Market.

Time money is very dull at the present time, and, despite the steady betterment taking place in a number of lines of business, quotations reflect the existence of no real demand for commercial accommodations. Rates are 4 to 4¼ per cent on the early maturities, with the bulk of the business being done at the first figure. Demand funds are still being loaned at 4 per cent to good borrowers on prime collateral.

SHEEP—It was a steady market, with the best lambs at $10.50, sheep $7.25 and bucks $5.50.

HORSES AND MULES—Horse trading today was brisk for this time of year. A right good offering was put up, a good many running to auction types owing to the inactivity in that quarter yesterday. Most of the arrivals cleared at good, steady prices. War types were in strong demand.

The mule run today was a right good one but very few buyers turned out. War mules sold cheaper, animals of this class having to be of right good quality to bring previous prices. Anything common was rejected without ceremony whatever.

After being closed since Saturday, the local wheat market reflected moderate firmness at the opening today. The trade was disappointed, however, as during the holiday spot wheat in Liverpool advanced 4d to 7d. Perfect domestic crop weather, large receipts and slack cash and export demands had a tendency to check bullish enthusiasm. B. W. Snow also issued a bearish report, indicating 763,000,000 bushels of wheat for the new United States crop, compared with the Government estimate of 715,000,000 bushels a month ago.

Corn futures were irregular and barely steady after an early fractional advance on firm cables. Weather was fine for the new crop. Oats were slightly lower on good crop weather.

July wheat opened ⅝c higher than Saturday's close on a sale at $1.02 and held firm. September started 1⅝c up at $1.05⅝@1.05½, sold at $1.05½, then lost to $1.04⅝@1.04⅞ asked, with a rally to $1.05.

September corn opened ¼c up at 72¼c, was quoted up to 72¼@72⅝c bid, then lost to 71⅞c, with a rally to 72c bid. December started ⅝c up at 60½c, then lost to 60⅛c, with a rally to 60⅝c bid.

The Liverpool cable said: "Wheat opened quiet, unchanged from yesterday and later Manitobas became easier, with shorts appearing satisfied. The pronounced activity in spot and lighter offers, together with lighter world's shipments to United Kingdom and dearness of freights stimulated a good demand, with Manitobas firmly held. Later Manitobas became easier and after being 2s higher than Saturday, sold at 1s 3d higher, with demand apparently satisfied. Winters held at 1s 6d advance. Continental demand is broadening and European crop advances are becoming less favorable. The corn market was steady, with a good trade in American parcels, which are 3d dearer. Spot market since Saturday was 1d to 2d dearer."

Liverpool spot wheat was quoted 4d to 7d higher than Saturday. Corn, 1d to 2d up.

B. W. Snow's report for July 1 makes corn acreage 106,373,000 bu, against 106,263,000 acres last year, and with a condition of 84.1 indicates a total crop of 2,893,000,000 bu. Too much rain prevented planting of the full acreage intended, but the seven surplus states show an increase of 1,744,000 acres, with the South and the Northwest showing a corresponding decrease. The condition is nearly 4 points above the average of the past five years, and the only disappointment expressed is the lateness in the growth of the plant. The ground is unusually full of moisture, the stand is at least equal to normal, fields are clear outside of a small percentage of low land, and with reasonably favorable weather in July the crop is in position to develop rapidly. Mere lateness at this stage of growth is of small importance.

"Condition of winter wheat at time of harvest is 74.9, promising a crop of 492,000,000 bu. Harvest is well advanced under good weather conditions and yield expected to fully equal earlier promise with quality and weight of grain above average.

"Condition of spring wheat 90.6, or about a point higher than a month ago, and indicating a crop of 271,000,000 bu, if no unfavorable condition develops during July. Development is late and with excessive rainfall of June, growth is succulent, leaving the plant unusually susceptible to either heat or rust damage should further weather conditions be at all unsatisfactory.

"Condition of oats 85.9, but the crop indication is now 1,281,000,000 bu, or 60,000,000 bu more than a month ago. Lateness of growth is general, but moisture and cool weather have furnished exceptional conditions for heading and filling and the final rate of yield is very likely to materially exceed the indication, based upon past experience.

The Price Current Grain Reporter says: "The weather in the main for the week ending July 1 was favorable for harvesting of winter wheat. Yields in the soft wheat sections generally small or equal to the June 1 indication, while in the Southwest the results have not shown material increase over early indications. Spring wheat conditions improving slowly. The week-end developed summer weather and fears of black rust are entertained on account of the superfluous moisture, a muggy atmosphere being conducive to the rust. The oats crop in the big belt is reaching the filling stage and conditions are fairly good for a big crop. The harvest will be from a week to 10 days late, and if hot, dry weather does not prevail a big crop will be gathered."

The domestic visible of wheat last week decreased 19,000 bu; corn decreased 898,000 bu, and oats decreased 1,614,000 bu.

Total clearances of wheat today were 1,609,000 bu; flour, 25,000 barrels; wheat and flour, 1,722,000 bu; corn, 196,000 bu; oats, 926,000 bu.

CHICAGO WHEAT IS HIGHER ON FIRM FOREIGN PRICES

CHICAGO, July 5.—Wheat rose in value today owing to an advance at Liverpool, [illegible] as a result of bullish foreign statistics. [illegible] bies reported that demand was broadening and that European crop advices were becoming less and less favorable. A consequent rush of buying here, however, ran into selling that was headed by one of the largest firms on change.

Opening prices, which ranged from ⅝c to 1⅜c net higher, with July at $1.04 and Sept. at $1.06 to $1.06⅝, were followed by a moderate general reaction.

Scarcity of offerings gave the corn market strength. Signs pointed to continued active demand for the seaboard, after opening ⅛c to ⅜c higher, prices, though, underwent something of a setback.

Oats were relatively weak. The reason was that conditions promised fairly well for a big crop.

Decreased stocks led to an upturn in provisions. Decline in the hog market was virtually ignored.

Kansas City Cash Grain.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—Cash wheat unchanged; No. 2 hard, 99c@$1.04; No. 3, [illegible] @$1.04; No. 2 red, 96c@$1.03; No. 3, [illegible]

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STOCKS REFLECT CHEERFUL TONE; PRICES HIGHER

Improved Mexican Outlook Causes Sharp Gains—Steel Orders Pending.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The response of the stock market to the favorable turn in the Mexican situation was an advance in prices and generally firm tone throughout the day. The altered outlook, however, was not accompanied by any such burst of activity as occurred when the Carranza authorities released the American soldiers captured at Carrizal, thus preparing the way for further move toward a peaceful settlement that was evidenced in today's official communication. That the outlook was greatly improved was not to be denied, yet the movement of the market reflected a degree of caution and a tendecy to await further developments.

"The railway shares were generally firm, after having advanced moderately. Industrial stocks, which in many cases had gained more sharply were somewhat less steady, though in a majority of cases the advances were well maintained.

"Money loaned on call on the Exchange as high as 4¼ per cent, doubtless reflecting the half-yearly transactions between the banks and the national treasury.

The Carranza Note.

"The Carranza note to our Government, published today, was doubtless the most substantially encouraging item which has come to light since the Mexican situation became critical, on the occasion of the fight at Carrizal.

"Whether the tone of that note was dictated by a change of viewpoint in Mexico City, or the military preparations along the border, or the movement of the American troops in Mexico northward, or outside pressure, the announced attitude of the de facto government was equally satisfactory to that large section of financial opinion which had never looked with favor upon intervention in Mexico. Many had come to regard such a course as unavoidable, but the decline in prices last week, and the prompt recovery when the American soldiers were released, seemed a fair index of the attitude of the market toward war in Mexico.

"Aside from the advances in stocks of companies operating in Mexico—advances which were based on the immediate situation—the most pronounced gains were in shares of some of the munitions companies. Too many other influences have been brought to bear on these stocks to permit their fluctuations to depend solely or principally on the chances of peace or war.

"Expectations of larger business to result from the war scare have been more than offset by lack of fresh speculative impulse in the stock market itself. Equally puzzling, in its narrow application to the war stocks, has been the great military activity in Europe. Will the present vast expenditure of ammunition result in further orders for American factories or have the Allies already provided, either here or at home, the bulk of their requirements?

"The market for the munitions shares is apparently depending less and less on these questions, and more and more on broader economic factors, as well as on what is generally referred to as the technical position of these issues in the stock market.

Iron Trade Is Active.

"As to the immediate outlook for these concerns, the Iron Age reports the continued placing of foreign business, some of it for large shells. The same authority reports a larger amount of 'specifications' against contracts on the books of the steel mills, but does not look for important price changes on this account.

"That journal places pig iron production in the United States last month at 3,211,588 tons, compared with 3,361,073 tons in May. The average daily rate of production declined, therefore, from 108,422 tons to 107,053 tons. The output is still being maintained at a rate comparable to that of the last four months.

"A significant feature of the report is the statement that working conditions, rather than any falling off in demand, were responsible for last month's decreased production.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 5.—Stocks responded to the more favorable developments in the Mexican hopeful and other hopeful auguries with a series of subsantial gains at the opening of today's market. Specialties like Studebaker, Balwin, Crucible and Mexican Petroleum advanced 1 to 2 points with similiar gains in the shipping shares. United States Steel was the only issue to register a "wide opening," a single block of 4000 shares changing hands at 86⅝ to 86⅞ against Monday's closing price of 86¼. Important rails were strong, Canadian Pacific gaining 1½. Texas Company rose 3 points and Maxwell and second preferred four.

Profit-taking of a general character and pressure against Reading and Industrial Alcohol served to impair prices soon after the opening of the stock market today. Canadian Pacific and Steel being almost the only unimportant stocks to show resistance. There was another and broader advance later, however, on publication of the conciliatory Mexican note. Steel advanced to 87⅛, with further gains in Canadian and some of the Granger and Coal issues. Petroleum made an extreme gain of 3 and other Mexicans, as well as Texas Co., augmented initial gains with improvement in Munitions and Coppers. Bonds were firm.

Mexican Petroleum, Union Pacific and United Fruit were in demand during the midsession all at further gains. The balance of the active list held firm to strong, despite continuous realizing.

STORM WARNINGS CAUSE RISE IN COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 5.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 6 points to an advance of 1 point, near months being easier in response to the decline in Liverpool over the local holiday.

Prospects pointed to rains in the eastern belt, however, while houses with Liverpool connections were fairly active buyers of October and the market soon firmed up on covering or renewal of bull support. July advanced from 12.72c to 12.88c, or about 9 points above the closing figures of Monday, while October sold up to 13.02c and Dec. to 13.19c, or 6 to 7 points net higher.

Private cables said the Liverpool market had been unfavorably affected by bulls reselling and reported a bearish local sentiment, which was attributed to freer offerings of spots. Spot houses here were moderate buyers.

Reports that storm warnings had been issued for the coast from New Orleans to Pensacola and that the wind had risen to a velocity of about 80 miles an hour at the latter point, were followed by an increasing active demand in the cotton market toward midday, which sent prices about 16 to 18 points above last night's closing figures, with October selling at 13.13c and Dec. at 13.30c. Demand tapered off around this level, but offerings remained small and the market was steady during the early trading in the afternoon within a point or two of the best. The closing was steady.

Manufacturing Site Wanted

A new automobile concern, thoroughly organized and in a healthy financial condition, is seeking a desirable site for its assembling plant, which will have a production capacity of 5,000 to 10,000 cars annually.

When in operation this plant will employ about 250 men. The selection of a location will depend largely on the advantages offered in the way of attractive living conditions, labor market, transportation facilities, and development opportunities.

The Shting of Death

GEORGE BALDWIN, leading man in "Princess Tra-La-La," in his dressing room told of attending a revivalist meeting at the old Great Northern Theater in Chicago one day a year ago. Sitting far back in the auditorium was a man who had drunk not wisely but too well. He was surrounded by empty seats, as the crowd was well forward, and was, as a matter of fact, conspicuously alone. The revivalist was reaching a climax in his sermon, and, eventually, rising on his toes, shouted at the top of his voice:

"I tell you, bretherin' hell is filled with automobiles, highballs and chorus girls!"

And in a quivering treble from the rear of the house, the intoxicated one, without hesitation, answered:

"Oh, death, where ish thy shting?"

THE boudoir cap, no doubt, is a pretty thing, still it's no excuse for a girl not to comb her hair before breakfast.

Secret of Harmony.

PULL together. This is the real secret of harmony. There is a story of a man who had committed the care of one of his teams to a faithful servant for years. At last one of the horses sickened and died. While the servant was burying the faithful animal the other horse came across the field and stood by, watching the work as a silent mourner. The master said:

"I believe Dick loved Billy."

Instantly the servant replied: "In cose he did, massa; why, they pulled together nigh 20 years."—The Christian Herald.

He Was Learning Fast

"A New Yorker and a Philadelphian set out to have a round of golf at a Georgia winter resort," he said.

"As the Philadelphian holed out at the first green, the New Yorker asked carelessly:

"'How many strokes did you take?'

"'Nine,' said the Philadelphian.

"'Then it's my hole,' said the New Yorker. 'I only took eight.'
